CREMATORY CONTRACT DECLARED NOT LEGAL BY SUPREME COURT

High Court Hands Down Decision Granting the Injunction Against the Destructor Company Erecting Plant for Atlanta—Mayor Woodward Elated Over Action.

COURT SAYS CONTRACT WOULD CREATE A DEBT BARRED BY STATE LAW

Opinion Reached on Appeal From the Decision of Judge Bell in Superior Court, Who Held That Atlanta Was Within Her Legal Privilege in Contracting With the Destructor Company.

The contract of the city of Atlanta, with the Destructor company of New York, for the purpose of erecting a city crematory, is illegal, and its performance must be enjoined. So the supreme court declared in a decision handed down late yesterday afternoon.

The decision of the court, which was written by Chief Justice Fish, and in which the other justices concur, is based entirely on constitutional grounds, it being held that the contract would create a debt for which no provision has been made by the voters of the city, in violation of article 7, section 7, paragraph 1, of the state constitution, which says:

"No municipality shall incur any debt except for a temporary loan or loans to supply casual deficiencies in the revenue not to exceed one-fifth of 1 per cent of the assessed valuation of the property within said municipality without the consent of two-thirds of the qualified voters thereof, at an election for that purpose, to be held as prescribed by law."

Limit on Indebtedness.

The constitution further fixes a limit on the indebtedness that can be so incurred. After holding that the contract between the city and the Destructor company is void, the court outlines the history of the case.

The contract provided for the construction of a crematory in Atlanta at a total cost of $375,000, $30,000 to be paid the year the contract was made and the balance in installments of $75,000 each, except the last, extending through a series of years, installments to be paid annually and to bear interest at 6 per cent per annum until paid. The city pledged its "good faith" to their payment.

The court says "that the term 'good faith' was understood to mean that the city could not bind itself to pay beyond the current year, but the mayor and council of that year recommended to the mayor and general council of succeeding years to make appropriations to cover the deferred payments specified in the contract; and that if a default in the payment by the city of any future installment of the purchase money should be made, this should, without any legal process whatever, transfer the possession of the plant to the contractor company; and that the company should become immediately vested with the title, possession and control of said plant, exclusive of the land, as against the city of Atlanta and said company shall have the right to operate, free of rent, for its own account for a period of ten years from the date of such default. Held, that such a contract ought to create a debt within the meaning of the constitutional provision on that subject set out in the first headnote and being entered into without submitting the question to a preliminary vote of the people, it is invalid."

Taxpayers Have Right to Enjoin.

In regard to the right of taxpayers to enjoin the appropriation of funds to be used in carrying out the contract, the court says:

"Taxpayers of the city have such an interest in the municipal funds arising from taxation that they may enjoin the creation of illegal debts by the corporation or their payment."

The court by no means undertakes to say that the city cannot erect a crematory, however. It simply passes on the existing contract without limiting in any way the city's right to build and operate a crematory in such manner as it shall see fit, provided it does not

GEN. B. H. YOUNG IS AGAIN ELECTED TO HEAD VETERANS

Commander-in-Chief and His Three Departmental Officers Are Unanimously Chosen to Serve Again.

JACKSONVILLE GETS REUNION NEXT YEAR

Virginia Reel, Followed by Turkey Trot, at Elaborate Ball Given for the Old Soldier.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—Jacksonville, Fla., late today was awarded the honor of entertaining the Twenty-fourth Annual United Confederate Reunion, and Commander-in-Chief General Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, Ky., with his three departmental commanders, were reelected at the last important business session of veterans during the present reunion here.

The next reunion went to Jacksonville after more than an hours deliberation, in which the hospitality and fame of that city, Nashville, Tenn., Houston, Texas, and Tulso, Okla., had been proclaimed by eloquent orators. When a vote was taken Jacksonville received 1,528 votes, Nashville, the nearest opponent, receiving 495. The selection of the Florida city then was made unanimous.

Departmental officers who again will serve under the command of General Young, are Lieutenant General Theodore S. Garnett, of Norfolk, commander of the army of North Virginia; Lieutenant General George P. Harris, of Opelika, Ala., commander of the army of Tennessee, and Lieutenant General K. M. Vansandt, of Fort Worth, Texas, commander of the Trans-Mississippi department.

Monuments Dedicated.

Other features of the second day's reunion program were the impressive ceremonies attendant upon the dedication of handsome monuments at Chickamauga Park by delegations from Florida and Alabama, and the parade of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, a joint memorial service in honor of the confederate dead also was held in the auditorium today, at which representatives from the veteran and all other organizations attending the reunion took part.

The election of officers by the veterans this afternoon was preceded by a lively discussion which followed the report of the committee on credentials. This committee recommended that credentials be withheld from General W. J. Behan, of New Orleans, because, it was alleged, he belonged to two confederate veteran organizations. General Behan mounted the platform and denounced the recommendation of the committee as malicious. After relating the battles in which he had participated during the war between the states, he called upon the veterans to "eat the committee's recommendations. For a time the meeting was in a turmoil. Explanations were called for and it finally was stated that General Behan had come as chairman of a delegation from Florida, while he still retained membership in the fifteen Louisiana camps which seceded from the veterans' organization four years ago.

A motion was made to amend the credentials committee's report so as to exclude the portion of it referring to General Behan. When a vote was called on the motion the presiding officer could not determine whether the ayes or the nays were the more numerous. An official vote by state divisions then was called for and the amendment was adopted.

Resolutions Adopted.

The report of the resolutions committee submitted this afternoon was adopted unanimously. Among the resolutions was one designating the general commander of the veterans, together with state division commanders, as representatives of the veterans' as-

Durham Man Shoots Wife, Slays Arresting Officer And in Turn Is Killed

Durham, N. C., May 28.—(Special.)—Sergeant Gill D. Cates, second officer of the Durham police force, was killed here tonight while trying to arrest Felix Conklin, a white man, who had shot his wife.

Officers Cates and Morgan responded to a call from West Durham saying that Conklin had shot his wife, when they started to arrest him, the drunken man opened fire. One shot took effect in Cates' body, and he died soon after reaching the hospital. Officer Morgan pulled his gun and began shooting immediately, and killed Conklin in his tracks, but not till Conklin had fired the fatal shot.

Conklin is well connected here and well known. He was drinking and, in a quarrel, became enraged and shot his wife.

NEGRO SWEEPER TELLS THE STORY OF MURDER NOTES

EVIDENCE CHAIN NOW COMPLETE, SAY POLICE

Conley Declares Frank Gave Him $2.50 for Writing the Notes—He Writes "Night Witch" for Night Watchman.

James Conley, the negro sweeper at the National Pencil factory, in which little Mary Phagan was murdered, made a new affidavit Wednesday morning, in which he threw additional light on the case, incriminating Leo M. Frank, and which detectives think will solve the long-drawn-out mystery.

"Write 'night watchman,'" he is said to have been commanded by detectives Wednesday morning. The result was "night witch," just as in the note found by the body of the murdered girl. This, the detectives declare, is the strongest corroboration of his statement that he wrote the notes at the direction of Frank, the factory superintendent.

The city detectives are said to put full credence in his statements now, as in the new affidavit he is said to have sworn that the notes were written on Saturday, about 1 o'clock, and not on Friday, as he first declared.

Feared for His Neck.

His reason for deception the first time is said to be that he feared for his own neck if he admitted the truth. As matters stand now, he is guarded by the detectives merely as an unwilling tool, and not as an accomplice of the murderer, whoever he may be.

According to this new affidavit, the negro's complete story of his part in the affair is said to be as follows:

A little after 10 o'clock Saturday morning he was standing at the corner of Forsyth and Nelson streets, when Frank, his employer, passed by, going in the direction of Montag Brothers. Mr. Frank is said to have told him to wait there until he (Frank) came back. A few minutes later, according to the negro, Frank returned, and took him to the factory with him. Here he made the negro sit on a box by the stairs, so the affidavit is said to state, and wait and "see what he could see." When wanted, Frank is said to have told him that he would whistle.

"Be careful not to let Mr. Darley see you," he swears the superintendent said.

Heard Frank Whistle.

About an hour later the negro is said to swear that he became sleepy, and he had had a hearty meal, a comfortable position and doing nothing. He dozed a while, and then awakened as he heard a sharp whistle, so he says, and saw Frank standing in the doorway at the head of the stairs.

He responded to Frank's call, and when he reached the factory superintendent's side, the latter is said to have grasped the negro under the arm.

Conley swears that Frank was quaking violently. He went further, swears that it gave him the impression that Frank wished to keep him from looking toward the rear.

In this way the negro was led into Mr. Frank's office, so he swears. He also swears that as they passed the time clock he looked up and noticed that it was four minutes to 1 o'clock.

According to Frank's sworn testimony before the coroner's jury before he was formally accused, the negro decoyed little Mary Phagan, had received her pay and left before that hour.

Put Him in Wardrobe.

The negro swears that they went back into the inner office, Frank saying nothing, but still maintaining the tight grip on the negro's arm. People were heard approaching, the negro declares, and Frank put him in a big wardrobe, soon disposed of the visitors and released him from his temporary confinement.

Then Frank, trembling from head to foot, so the negro declares, said that he wanted to get a sample of the negro's handwriting.

Frank dictated and the negro wrote. Conley swears that he remembers that one of the notes began, "Dear Mother."

Conley swears that as Frank walked back and forth nervously in the office his hands trembled, he ran them constantly through his hair, and at one time muttered to himself in an undertone, "There's no reason why I should hang."

Conley says that after he finished writing, Frank warmly thanked him, called him "good boy," etc. and gave him $2.50 and lead him to the door at the head of the stairs.

The negro swears that he left the factory at ten minutes after 1 o'clock. He further states that he did not see Mary Phagan at any time on the day of the murder, and that he didn't see Frank again until Tuesday morning.

Said He Could Not Write.

For the first two weeks of his incarceration the negro, Conley, stoutly maintained that he could not write. However, the detectives found that he had bought two watches on the installment plan and signed "deeds" to them. They compared his writing on these, they say, and found it identical with the writing on the slips of paper found by the body in the pencil factory. A short while after this he called for Detective John Black and made his confession. Conley said he himself would hang, is said to be the reason that the negro denied any connection with the case. Conley still maintains that he had no knowledge of a crime being committed in the building.

Chief Beavers has conferred with Judge L. S. Roan as to whether he could take the negro to Frank's cell

HE HANGED HIMSELF TO TREE IN ORCHARD

Roanoke, Va., May 28.—W. J. Miller, 60 years old, whose home is near Bedford, Va., committed suicide at 6 o'clock this morning by hanging himself to a tree in his orchard. His body was found by members of his family before life was extinct, and although he lived for fifteen minutes after being cut down, never regained consciousness.

Mr. Miller leaves a wife and six children.

Miller's destruction was deliberate. He climbed to the topmost branches of the tree, tide the rope securely and jumped. He died from strangulation.

SPECIAL CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING SECTION IN THE WOMAN'S EDITION.

So completely has attention been concentrated upon securing the display advertising, the extra circulation, and the preparation of the paper editorially, that it has been rather suddenly realized that The Woman's Edition of The Constitution was about to go to press without a Classified Advertising section. In these days any newspaper without classified advertising would be an oddity and a Woman's Edition particularly, no matter how complete otherwise, would contain a flaw without any "want advertising," inasmuch as women are as much interested in the little advertising as in the display.

In order to correct that oversight while there is still time, it has been determined to establish a "Want Ad Page" in The Woman's Edition.

The rate will be 1c per word, or 7c per line, for all classifications. The same classifications now carried by The Constitution will be followed. Ads will be accepted only for cash, and must be received by noon of Tuesday, June 3. Checks, drafts or postage for small amounts will be accepted from outside of Atlanta.

There are 18,000 women in this state, 8,000 of them in Atlanta, participating in the issuance of The Woman's Edition. Already the circulation, with advance special sales, has reached 60,000.

The deep interest of the women of the state in the paper insures that it will be read page by page by all of them. No better prestige could have been established for any advertising medium. Its adaptability to want advertising is obvious.

This section in The Woman's Edition will be separate and apart from the regular classified pages of The Constitution of that date, and Want Ads for The Woman's Edition must be so ordered at the special rates and terms specified above.

J. HAM LEWIS NAMED WHIP OF THE SENATE

Washington, May 28.—Senator James Hamilton Lewis, of Illinois, was today elected democratic floor manager and assistant to Majority Leader Kern by the senate democratic caucus. Senator Lewis' position is a new one in the senate, and corresponds to the whip in the house.

The caucus adopted a resolution urging all democratic senators to remain in Washington, and went on record as opposed to any long trips to Europe such as several senators had planned, until the tariff bill has been disposed of. Because of their slender majority plans were discussed for keeping members in line and getting them to the senate for important votes.

The cause also named a committee to confer with a committee from the house and members of the national democratic committee regarding reorganization of the congressional campaign committee. Senators Gore, Chamberlain, Shiveley, Newlands and Thomas were named.

BLACK SLAYER'S BODY CUT UP AND SINGED BY MOB AT HAMPTON

Hampton, S. C., May 29—Austin's body arrived here at 2 o'clock this morning. It was taken from the sheriff by the mob, the head cut off, fingers, toes, etc., cut off by members of the mob for mementoes and the body "singed" and hanged from a tree in front of the courthouse. The mob was orderly and no violence occurred.

Savannah, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Richard Henry Austin, a negro, and the alleged murderer of Dr. S. C. Moore, Magistrate Edenfield and Victor Bowers, in Hampton county, South Carolina, who was badly wounded when shot down by a sheriff in his capture at Newington Tuesday night, died tonight aboard the steamer Attaquin, half way between here and Bluffton, S. C. The negro had been brought here on a stretcher with his abdomen torn open by nine buckshot wounds, and his left arm broken by a rifle bullet.

INTERSTATE BRIDGE IS SCENE OF MURDER

Columbus, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Walter Duke and Perry Argo, residents of Phenix City, met on the Fourteenth street river bridge at 11 o'clock tonight and became involved in a difficulty which resulted in the shooting of Argo by Duke with a pistol. The ball penetrated Argo's breast near the heart, and he died en route to the hospital.

Duke was arrested by Girard authorities and placed in jail there. He will be brought to the Georgia side tomorrow, as the shooting occurred within the jurisdiction of this state.

Full particulars of the killing and the cause leading up to it have not been learned. Duke is a shoe salesman for a Columbus company. Argo's former home was Cochran, Ga.

POLICE SEEK FOR SON FOLLOWING MURDER OF MOTHER AND GIRL

COSTLY DIAMOND RING, MONEY AND REVOLVERS MISSING FROM HOUSE

Suspicion of Crime Is Also Directed at a Half-Breed Who Had Been Dismissed and Two Negroes Seen in Neighborhood — Husband Is in Chattanooga Attending Reunion of Confederate Veterans.

Two skeletons found in the smouldering ruins of a country home near Constitution, eight miles from Atlanta, yesterday at daybreak, told the story of the murder and incineration of aged Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens and her pretty daughter, Nellie, aged 15.

The police of every important city in America have been notified to look for her son, Wade, 17 years old, who disappeared some time Tuesday night, and who is suspected of the crime. The coroner's jury, empanelled at the scene, recommended that he be apprehended and held for full investigation.

Robbery apparently was the motive. A handsome $400 diamond ring is missing, along with two costly revolvers, an unknown amount of money which had been hidden in the burned home, and two valuable watches. An unbreeched shotgun was found near the body of the mother. An open knife was discovered beneath her.

Murder Occurred. At Midnight.

The murder occurred at midnight. The fire was seen, mounting to its full height, at 2 o'clock in the morning. The ruins and tragedy were discovered by a wagon load of children at sunrise, who were passing along the road on the way to their schoolhouse. Sheriff McCurdy, arriving immediately on the scene with bloodhounds, was unable to find the scent.

The husband and father, William Stevens, an aged farmer, was in Chattanooga, attending the annual confederate reunion. The son and suspect disappeared Tuesday night, and efforts to locate him Wednesday proved fruitless.

The dead mother was a wealthy woman, and is said to have owned considerable property in East Atlanta and along the McDonough road. She is said to have always kept a large sum of money secreted in her bedroom. She was the best-known resident in the vicinity of Constitution and McDonough.

A quarrel ensued between her and Wade, the son, Tuesday afternoon, when he is said to have demanded money with which to go to Chattanooga and thence to Cincinnati. The younger victim, Nellie, was sent to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. L. G. Self, with the youth's clothes, in an effort to detain him at home.

Wearing a pair of overalls and jumper coat, the son stole away from home at sundown, coming into Atlanta, where he met "Red" Merchant,

ROOSEVELT LISTENS WITH PLEASED SMILE

Believed That Prosecution in $10,000 Libel Suit Against Michigan Paper Will Complete Its Case Thursday.

Marquette, Mich., May 28.—Men who have been associated with Theodore Roosevelt in public life and private life, who met him on the Nile when he returned from his African hunting trip, and newspaper men who accompanied him on his various political campaigns, testified today in Colonel Roosevelt's libel suit against George A. Newett, a newspaper owner of Ishpeming, Mich., that the former president not only was not a drunkard, but that he was notably and extremely temperate in the use of intoxicants. It would have been impossible, the witnesses said, for Colonel Roosevelt ever to have been under the influence of liquor without the fact becoming known to his associates. It would have been equally impossible, they testified, for him to have drunk liquor with any regularity without the smell of it on his breath being apparent.

Throughout the hearing of the case, in which the former president is suing for $10,000 damages because of the publication last October of an editorial charging him with getting drunk, Colonel Roosevelt listened with evident satisfaction to the testimony of former members of his cabinet and of newspaper men. Frequently he smiled as some incident of his campaigns or hunting trips was related from the witness stand.

Break Causes Chuckle.

Once Colonel Roosevelt gave vent of an audible chuckle. This was when Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, in spelling out his acquaintance with members of the Roosevelt family, said the colonel was the father of five children, although he has six. Colonel Roosevelt's sense of humor was awakened at once by this lapse of Mr. Bacon's memory, and the hearty chuckle which he vainly tried to smother in his hand caused a ripple of laughter about the courtroom.

For almost six hours of testimony taking, examination by attorneys, Colonel Roosevelt occupied his chair just back of his counsel.

The day's proceedings were marked by an important ruling by Judge Richard C. Flannagan, which, in the introduction of evidence by the defense, will have the effect of excluding certain kinds of hearsay testimony. This ruling came after a prolonged argument, during which the jurors were excluded from the room, and after attorneys for Colonel Roosevelt had urged for the exclusion of a certain kind of testimony which they said might be introduced by the defense through depositions.

The effect of the ruling was that Colonel Roosevelt's general reputation was not in question, but that rumors bearing upon reputation coming from persons not qualified by experience to judge, shall not be admitted. In the brief progress of the hearing, it was explained in court, a person who has traveled extensively with the former president, or who has been associated with him with any degree of constancy, may testify as to his reputation. But a man who heard the colonel deliver a political speech, or ask him for only a few moments in a crowd, may not testify as to his general reputation, although he may tell how the colonel acted or appeared at that particular time.

James H. Pound and William H. Van Benschoten, Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys, said the ruling was agreeable to them. Horace Andrews, one of Mr. Newett's counsel, described the ruling as "fatal to the defense in criminal case," and pleaded for an unrestricted ruling on the admission of evidence by the defense.

Almost every phase of Colonel Roosevelt's public life was touched upon by today's witnesses. All of them spoke with emphasis when they expressed personal knowledge in denying, as the editorial charges, that the colonel gets drunk and that not infrequently, and "all his intimate friends know it."

Merely Courtesy Drinks.

It was asserted that whenever Colonel Roosevelt drank champagne or wine or a mint julep, it was out of courtesy to his host at some public function; that he often only took a mouthful from a wine glass, and that on one occasion he ordered a railroad company not to place in his special car the supply of liquors usually placed in such cars.

The witnesses were Mr. Bacon, Truman H. Newberry, former secretary of the navy; John Callan O'Loughlin, a Washington newspaper man; Lucius F. Curtis, a New York newspaper man, and Gilson Gardner, a newspaper man, who testified the day before, was recalled.

Repeatedly and in various phrases

a companion. He and Merch..nt, later at night, encountered Charles B. McWilliams, another youth. To McWilliams they told a story of a planned trip to Chattanooga and Cincinnati, saying they intended to hobo their way to both cities.

Half-Breed Involved, By This Theory.

A theory diverting suspicion from the wayward son has been offered by the story of Miss Josephine McCauley, of 790 Glennwood avenue, an intimate friend of both the slain mother and daughter. She says that only a few days ago, Mrs. Stevens came to the Glennwood avenue address, telling an exciting story of shooting at a half-breed Mexican whom she had employed to work around her home.

The half-breed, Miss McCauley says, while working at the Stevens home, had insulted the daughter, Nellie. Subsequently he was fired. A short time following, he reappeared at the home, lurking about the rear of the place. When seen by Mrs. Stevens, she fired twice at him, once as he fled into the woods adjoining the house.

Another theory is that the murder was committed by two suspicious negroes who were seen driving away from the burning home at sunrise Wednesday morning. They rode in a one-horse wagon, the body of which was filled with fresh oats. Tracks of a horse and of a wagon were found in a spot near the ruins. In the immediate vicinity was discovered a small pile of fresh oats. Efforts are being made to locate both negroes.

The murdered mother had a record for bravery. Often she had defended her home from intruders. It was set on the knob of a hill in a desolate section of the woods, flanking McDonough road just beyond Constitution. She had always kept a loaded shotgun and pistol conveniently near her bed.

Mother Fought Her Assailant.

That she fought her slayer is not doubted. The shotgun, loaded and by the side of her body, is mute evidence of that fact. Also, the open knife which lay beneath her bones. Her head had been crushed brutally, and possibly both she and the dead girl had been stabbed. A hoe, too, which lay near the doorway of the room of tragedy, was probably used in the plucky woman's fight.

The two skeletons lay almost side by side. The mother was near the door. The girl was upon her face, the mother lay upon the back. The only means of identification were the false teeth in the skull of the older woman, and a gold buckle, an heirloom, which pinned the nightgown around her throat.

A gaping hole had been crushed in the woman's skull, and a smaller hole was in the skull of her daughter. Their bones lay in the center of the room, near the doorway. The building was burned down completely. Only the brick work and metal fixtures remained. The ruins smoked and smouldered all day Wednesday.

Supporting the arson theory were the ashes of an amount of firewood, built in a pile, at the rear of the building, and empty kerosene and gasoline cans found nearby. The fire is believed to have originated in this section of the structure, and was fanned by a brisk wind from the east.

This is the theory advanced by Sheriff McCurdy and other officials of DeKalb, who are investigating the crime.

Mother and Daughter Are Stabbed.

The home was entered about midnight, Mrs. Stevens was awakened by noise of the intruders. Jumping out of bed, she seized her shotgun. As she reached the floor the door of her room opened. In stepped the slayer. She raised the gun to fire. It was wrested from her hands. A scuffle ensued.

The daughter was awakened by noise of the struggle. The aged woman was stabbed. The daughter screamed. As her mother fell to the floor she darted forward to escape. She, too, was stabbed. The murderer, undoubtedly some one well acquainted with the premises, then went to the rear of the house for the axe used in splitting firewood.

Determined that his victims should not live to tell their stories, their skulls were crushed with the axe. Afraid that some clue would be left to accuse him of the crime, he set fire to the home, escaping through the woods, in which tracks were discovered.

The axe theory was advanced, because that implement, usually to be found in the woodyard near the home, was not there. It is thought that it was hidden or carried away because of bloodstains on its edge. A thorough search of the woods and land proved fruitless.

Coroner's Jury Is Empanelled.

The coroner's inquest was not held until late in the afternoon. A group of men at the scene were empanelled as the jury. In absence of Coroner Williams, C. C. Crahll, justice of the peace at Decatur presided over the proceedings. Dr. E. F. Fincher, of Decatur, examined the charred bodies.

While they shifted from the shade of one hospitable oak to another to avoid the curious crowds that constantly gathered around them, the jury considered the facts of the crime, and heard the few witnesses who were to be obtained. One witness was heard while the jury stood grouped over the bones of the victims.

An important witness was Mrs. Self, a neighbor of the dead mother and girl, who lives on an adjoining hill. She testified that on Tuesday afternoon Nellie appeared at her home nervous and excited, bringing a package of clothing, which she placed in the lap of her neighbor. Mrs. Self was sitting on the porch.

"Here," she was quoted as having said, "Here are Wade's clothes. You know what's the trouble—keep them," with which she ran back toward her own home.

Mrs. Self says that the clothes were left at her home in an effort to prevent the son from leaving town. The mother had often done that, she said, to keep the boy from departing on his tramps.

The murdered girl was an adopted member of the Stevens family. During her infancy she had been taken from the Decatur orphans' home. Wade was the dead woman's only child.

Comes Home to Stay.

He had been away on a long trip south when he last returned home about four months ago. Coming back to his mother, he is said to have told her that he never would leave again, but remain home and make up for the past.

Sheriff McCurdy was not content with the first verdict of the coroner's jury. He explained to them that murders directed suspicion to the missing son, and suggested that they act upon his supposed connection. The first verdict was destroyed and replaced with one recommending the apprehension of the youth. It read:

"We recommend that Wade Stevens be apprehended and held for further investigation."

The original verdict was:

"The coroner's jury, empanelled upon the discovery of these crisp bodies in the burned home of Mrs. Sarah C. Stevens, finds that she and her dead daughter, Nellie, met death at the hands of some unknown person or persons."

Finger Prints May Convict Murderer.

Concentrating most of his efforts in the search for the missing ax, the sheriff hopes to find on its handle finger prints which will lead to the slayer. Also, he has staked off the footprints found in the nearby woods, intending to have them examined and measured by experts. All pawnshops throughout Atlanta have been given descriptions of the stolen revolvers, the two watches and the diamond ring.

There was a pathetic scene at the ruins late in the afternoon, when the coroner instructed the undertaker to remove the remains of mother and daughter.

As his instructions were carried out a sob came from a group of girls who had known both the slain girl and her foster parent. One little girl, Josephine McCauley, was led away from the scene, weeping hysterically.

Men stood about in silence. Suddenly, someone doffed his hat. Then the entire crowd of men removed their hats and stood with bared heads. The undertaker's assistant ceased work for a moment to take off his cap.

Even the coroner's jury, which sat deliberating upon the crime beneath the shade of a neighboring tree, removed their hats and stopped the inquest until the casket was placed in the ambulance and the machine had clanged its way through the trees.

When the bodies had been removed a young girl, evidently a neighboring tant from the ruins, telling Sheriff McCurdy that someone had better attend to the stock that belonged to the dead woman. The sheriff instructed the girl and her sister, a much younger child, to remove the animals to her own home if she would.

Take Care of Stock.

As the ambulance moved away with the remains of the slain woman, the little girl and her sister led three cows off through a path in the woods in direction of their home. Another girl came with an apron filled with oats to feed the flock of chickens and pigeons, which the tragedy had left keepers and upon the mercies of a neighborhood.

Farris Simpson, a young man living in the vicinity of the burned home, told the coroner's jury of having seen the flames at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning. He was walking cross-country to his home, he said, when the skies were illumined with a glowing red. He watched the flames as they mounted higher and higher, finally to die in a dull glow.

He accounted for the time by the passing of freight train No. 1108, on the Southern road, which runs at 1 o'clock each morning, and which he had heard rumble across a nearby trestling when he first noticed the flames. Keeping on the way home he did not investigate the fire because he thought it too distant.

Charles McWilliams, the youth who talked with Wade Stevens Tuesday night, was questioned by Chief Beavers at police headquarters Thursday afternoon, and forced to give a description of the missing boy. He had met Stevens, with three other youths, he said, about 6 o'clock on the night of the murder. They were uptown.

Son Held No Grudge.

About 6:30 o'clock," he said, "I met Wade on Decatur street, near Five Points. He was with three other fellows, 'Red' Merchant, an intimate companion of Wade's; H. C. Harmon and Taylor Hammond.

"Wade and I were together until 8 o'clock. He was broke, and I set up his crowd twice. He never made any complaint about his treatment at home, and didn't seem to have a grudge against any one. He talked incessantly about his travels, how he had hoboed to New Orleans and other places, and how he had traveled all over the country.

"He said he had been in Paris, and a lot of other foreign countries. When I left him, he said he was going to Chattanooga on the N. C. & St. L. train, which leaves at 8:15 o'clock. He didn't say how he intended traveling. I didn't ask him, but surmised that he intended riding the blind baggage, as he said he always did.

"I have known Wade for eight or nine years. He always seemed to be a good sort of fellow, but wandered about the country nearly all his time, coming back to Atlanta every once in a while and staying with his homefolks. I guess he did this every time he got broke."

Wade has served time in a local reformatory, it is said. When he was seen by McWilliams Tuesday night, he were overalls and jumper, which he evidently had donned when unable to recover the clothing which his mother had sent away by his foster sister. He had Merchant, McWilliams stated, intended making a trip to Chattanooga together.

The tragedy was not discovered until shortly after daybreak, when Sam Farris drove by the smoking ruins in his bus loaded with children on their way to school. Noticing the smoke that arose from the top of the hill on which the Stevens home was situated, he stopped his vehicle and climbed out to investigate.

He was followed up the hill by the children. Arriving at the scene, he looked around for human occupants. A schoolgirl, prodding the embers with a stick, discovered the remains of Mrs. Stevens' body.

Mrs. Stevens Was Wealthy.

Mrs. Stevens was reputed to have been one of the best business women in the Constitution and McDonough section. She owned considerable property and was a successful promoter of real estate. Sometime past she built forty or more houses in East Atlanta. She was considered wealthy.

Much of her fortune is said to have been kept secreted at home. She also is reported to have closed a business deal Tuesday afternoon which brought her a considerable amount, all of which is believed to have been stolen by her murderer. A large savings bank, found near the bodies, had evidently been ransacked.

She was a sister of Sergeant J. W. Whatley, of the Atlanta police department. When notified of her death, Whatley, in the automobile of Chief Beavers, rushed with the chief to the scene. He will personally conduct an investigation into the crime. Chief Beavers also is taking an interest in the case, and is exerting every effort to apprehend the missing son.

The dead woman's husband was telegraphed in Chattanooga. He wired back that he was leaving that city at 4 o'clock last night, and arrives in Atlanta this morning. He is 70 years old. Mrs. Stevens was about 50 years of age. She had been a resident of Fulton county until Christmas.

The Stevens family had occupied the home in which she met death only since Christmas. It was a single-story, frame structure, containing eight rooms. The flames completely destroyed it. Adjoining structures, such as the barn, chicken house and outhouses, were untouched.

Girl Reported to Be Engaged.

The girl victim was a pretty girl of 15. She was popular throughout the section, and, it is said, was engaged to be married at an early date. She was deeply attached to her foster mother, and she was an ardent lover of books and music.

Believing the fatal axe may be in a well in the rear of the ruined home the water will be pumped out. Even if the axe is not found the well is expected to reveal some clue.

Positive in his belief that both victims were stabbed before dealt the death blows, Sheriff McCurdy brings the statement of Dr. Fincher to support his theory. Dr. Fincher testified before the coroner's inquest that the knife found under the woman's body was a new one, and that it had been bent by being thrust into some object.

The blade was open when discovered. Dark stains, that were not erased by the flames or heat, remained. A microscopic examination will be made to determine whether or not they are blood stains. Also, the husband will be asked to identify the weapon immediately upon his return.

Two Negroes Driving Rapidly.

The two negroes driving away from the scene were noticed by J. J. Patrick, a farmer and resident of McDonough road near the Stevens home. He says they were riding hurriedly in the direction of Atlanta, and that the body of their wagon was filled with fresh oats. Importance is attached to his story, because of the discovery of wagon and horse tracks near the burned home.

Although his name is not known, a wide search is being made for the Mexican halfbreed at whom Mrs. Stevens shot when he was recently seen prowling around the place.

All day Wednesday the home was a mecca for curious sightseers. The bodies, at the order of Sheriff McCurdy, remained in the position which they were found until late in the afternoon.

The tiny golden buckle lay upon the skeleton of Mrs. Stevens until removed by the undertaker. Everywhere over the ruins men searched for clues or for money or valuables which might have been overlooked by the murderer.

So disastrous were the flames, however, that nothing could be found excepting the looted bank. An examination of the two fireplaces and the stove revealed that there had been no fire in either on the preceding night. The footprints found in the woods are considered the most valuable clues.

Mrs. Stevens is survived by her husband, one son, Wade Stevens, and an adopted daughter, Miss Nellie Stevens; six sisters, Mrs. Nellie Patrick, Mrs. Charlie Smith, Mrs. C. L. Golden, Mrs. H. E. Hartley, Miss Lillie Whatley and Mrs. W. C. Sims, of Meansville, and three brothers, J. W., T. C. and H. T. Whatley, of Barnesville. The bodies of Mrs. Stevens and her daughter were brought to Patterson's chapel, where they will be held pending the arrival of William C. Stevens from Chattanooga.

NEGRO SWEEPER TELLS STORY OF MURDER NOTES

and confront the superintendent with the black. Judge Rean, it is understood, told the chief that under the law Frank would be entitled to consult his attorney, and have the latter present, should such a meeting be arranged.

Frank's attorney, Luther Z. Rosser, is at present at Clayton, Rabun county, engaged in the Tallulah Falls suit. Sheriff Wheeler Mangum sent Frank word and the latter stated that he did not wish to see the officers or the negro, unless his attorney was present. Without Frank's consent the sheriff would not allow the officials to visit Frank in the tower, and the attempt was given up. Whether Chief Beavers will make another effort to get Frank and Conley together is not known.

Conley has only admitted having written the phrase of the murder notes in which appear the words: "That long tall black negro did this by himself." He has not been shown the remainder of that note, or the other note found beside the body. Detectives will today compare Conley's handwriting with that of the other note.

The negro says he wrote other phrases at Frank's dictation, but cannot recall any beside the words indicated. He says he can identify the other writing if it is shown him, which will be done some time today. Detectives now place complete confidence in his story, and will keep him in prison as a material witness in Frank's trial.

Many people have wished to know just exactly how Conley copied the handwriting on the murder notes. Some believed that the notes were placed before him and he was told to copy them, while others think he wrote from dictation.

According to Harry Scott, of the Pinkertons, Conley has not yet seen the murder notes. The words were dictated to him, but not spelled as was done in the case of Newt Lee. Conley's spelling corresponds with that of the note.

Scott says that Conley's story is to the effect that he withheld his confession because he expected to be paid a large sum by Frank or his friends. When he made his first confession he believed that if he admitted having written the notes on Saturday, instead of Friday, it would incriminate him more than the suspected superintendent, and he would be hanged on circumstantial evidence.

The negro Conley is regarded by the detectives as their most material witness. He is the missing link, they think, which connects the chain of circumstantial evidence which they have gathered.

George W. Gentry, the young stenographer who took down the dictaphone conversation, is in hiding at present, owing to annoyance caused by much questioning by strangers in regard to the affair.

Gentry left Monday morning after an interview with a man who posed as a newspaper reporter, and told Gentry that he was in danger of being arrested on a trumped up charge.

Since leaving he is said to have been in constant communication with his mother and other members of the family, at $2 East Alexander street.

His family are confident that he will return as soon as the excitement over the dictagraph affair subsides.

SERIES OF SOCIAL EVENINGS AT TRINITY

"Uncle Remus at Church," by Miss Agnes Coleman, one of Atlanta's most charming readers, will be a feature at Trinity church and its Sunday school entertainment Wednesday evening, June 4, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. To bring about "a closer bond of fellowship" among the Trinity members the board of stewards, made up of some of the leading professional and business men of Atlanta, has inaugurated a series of entertainments to take place in the large auditorium of Trinity church, the first one to come being in the first week of next month. In addition to an entertaining program, made up of music and addresses, an appetizing supper will be served. After the overture will come a chorus of forty voices rendering "Teach Me to Pray." Colonel John A. Hynds will give an address of welcome, while Mrs. A. H. Spain will tell of "The Gospel of Good Cheer."

HEBREW SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

A regular monthly meeting of the Abavath ZZion Sunday school was held last Sunday at the Gilmer Street synagogue. The following officers were elected:

Miss Mamie Levin, president; Miss Clara Siegel, vice president; Miss Ethel Goodman, treasurer; Miss Lena Zion, financial secretary; Miss Fannie Cuba, recording secretary, and Misses Libbie Zion and Fannie Cohen, librarians.

It was decided to combine with the Daughters of Zion Society in an ice cream festival and concert, which will be given next Sunday, June 1, at the Sunday school club rooms.

EPISCOPALIANS TALK OF CHANGE IN NAME

Committee Appointed to Decide Position of the Atlanta Diocese — Bishop Nelson Deplores Lack of Clergymen.

Athens, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The sixth annual council of the diocese of Atlanta of the Episcopal church met this morning with Emmanual church, this place, the Rt. Rev. Charles K. Nelson presiding.

The chief business of the council outside the regular routine will be the selection of clerical and lay deputies to represent this diocese in the General convention.

The first thing this morning was the meeting of the women's auxiliary with a brief address from the bishop to that body. At 10 o'clock the council was formally opened in beautiful and impressive manner. The Holy communion was celebrated—the bishop celebrant, the Rt. Rev. Dean Pise, gospeller; Rev. H. F. Saumenig, epistoler; Rev. John D. Wing, chaplain; Rector Troy Beatty, of Emmanuel church, server.

Business sessions of the council, of the woman's auxiliary and of the junior auxiliary were called about 11:15, and again this afternoon. This evening in the church the missionary service was held with addresses by the bishop, the department secretary, Rev. R. W. Patton, and others. Interesting reports were made on the needs and condition of the diocese in the matter of missions.

The Bishop's Address.

Declaring that the work has progressed during the year the bishop in his address alluded first to the lack of a sufficient number of clergy to fill all the stations. With the high cost of living existent the bishop "declined to be a party to withholding a living wage from the clergy and will not ask a clergyman with a small family to accept less than the pay of a day laborer."

The bishop adjured the clergy to work for the "extension of the Kingdom, and for the intensifying of personal religion, social ethics, civic strength, political obligations and judicial and communal purity and righteousness."

In reviewing the field of the diocese the bishop recommends that the convocations of Columbus and Macon be combined so as to include Birnesville as well as Fort Valley and Talbotton.

An additional endowment of not less than $75,000 was recommended to be raised for the support of the episcopate.

Discusses Title of Church.

"That this is the Catholic church in the United States and in all America is about as clear to me as anything can be," said the bishop in discussing the correction of the title of the church. "No other ecclesiastical body, except to followers of Irving, have the title or desire it, no others undertake to prove their lineage from the church of the apostles and corporate unity with Christendom before the great schism between the east and the west, and none others of those which are Catholic in constitution or name claim to be autonomous localized branches of the Catholic church for America and Americans not calling into question the Catholicity not one of them under their own title deeds, claims or assumes to be the American Catholic church, ever should they subdue and attach every Christian in America."

The subject of the correction of the title, the bishop declared, has been discussed for many years, he hoped that it will not be discussed at the approaching general convention, as it is plain, he said, that our people are in no mood to settle the question amicably or lovingly. He enjoined less bitterness and warmth and urged the diocesan council and parishes not to memorialize the general body, but to leave that tribunal to do its work and settle the vexed questions in free and impartial, coo and wise manner.

One of the most important matters, interesting the church and the general public, which the council of the diocese of Atlanta considered today, was the appointment of a committee to take action on the position this diocese will take in the movement for changing the title of the church from "Protestant Episcopal church" to the "Catholic Church of America." This question will be the greatest one at the coming general convention, and the choice of deputies to that general convention will be significant in indicating the trend of the church in this matter.

Rev. C. B. Wilmer, of Atlanta; Rev. John S. Banting, of Macon; Rev. S. A. Wragg, of Columbus; Dr. Harry C. White, of Athens; Slaton Grantland, of Griffin, and Mr. T. E. Berry, of Columbus, were named a committee on the change of the name of the church."

Rev. John D. Wing, of Atlanta, was unanimously elected secretary of the council today. Reports were heard and referred from the treasurer, E. W. Stetson, of Macon, on the board of missions, corporation, committee of clergy relief, finance and secretary. A committee was named to consider the bishop's report on the establishment by the church of a school for young women. The committee is to report to this meeting.

Officers of the council and of the women's auxiliary are to be elected tomorrow. Either Atlanta and three Macon churches and thirty from other towns are represented.

Maryland Episcopalians Opposed.

Baltimore, Md., May 28.—The Maryland convention of the Protestant Episcopal church today voted against the proposal to change the church name. A stir was caused by the report of the social service commission, which went over without debate for consideration at another meeting.

The report discussed the free question, race track gambling, sex hygiene and the saloon problem in frank and emphatic language. It called upon the clergy to require health certificates from those desiring to be married, and recommended wisely adapted sex hygiene education in the schools. An unequivocal recognition of the single standard of morals for both sexes also was urged.

Chinese Inns.

(From The Roman Herald.)

At the better class of Chinese inns the proprietor receives his guests at the outer gate, ushers them into the courtyard and shows them to their apartments; then he retires and leaves them to their own devices. The traveler is attended by his own servants; his cook buys and prepares his food, of the same quality and cookery as he would enjoy at his own home table; the boy unpacks his master's bed, the iron frame, mattresses and all, even to the mosquito netting. The master's own linen is spread, having been washed by his own servants. Folding chairs, table, in fact everything which one may wish is arranged, and all without a word. At a tenth the cost one lives like a lord, and sleeps like a child, and is a thousand miles from the tipping

DECISION TODAY IN TALLULAH CASE

Value of Plats and Blueprints Over Field Notes Urged as a Most Important Point by Attorneys.

By J. Walter LeCraw, Staff Correspondent.

Clayton, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Addressing their legal arguments and oratory directly towards Judge J. B. Jones, upon whose charge to the jury the decision in the power company land suit will largely rest, Edgar Watkins and Alex C. King began late this afternoon their closing argument in the Tallulah Falls hearing.

Attorneys for both sides declared that Judge Jones' construction of the law in his charge to the jury would have a greater influence on the verdict than what the jury of eleven north Georgia farmers and a school teacher might think about the evidence. The argument will be completed tomorrow and a verdict is expected early in the afternoon.

In an hour's argument, Edgar Watkins, representing the state, outlined the legal questions involved, claiming tha the field notes of the survey party as representing the actual lines traversed are higher authority than the plats or blue prints. Alex C. King, whose argument followed that of Mr. Watkins, urged Judge Jones to rule that the plats and grants are the highest authority, and cited many precedents to uphold the ruling asked for. If the judge so rules it is believed tha the power company will easily win the verdict, while if he rules as Mr. Watkins argues, the state may win.

With an argument by W. S. Paris, the Clayton attorney, associated with the state in the suit, the day's hearing came to a close at 7 o'clock tonight, after a session over eight hours long.

Old Grants as Evidence.

By the introduction of the actual deeds by which the state of Georgia is declared to have granted the land in the Tallulah gorge in the years 1818, 1819 and 1820, the attorneys for the Georgia Railway and Power company began the presentation of their evidence early Wednesday afternoon in the hearing of the Tallulah Falls land suit.

Seared and yellow, the grants themselves to some of the tracts were introduced, while certified copies of others were presented. There was no dispute as to the validity of the grants, but only as to the lines of the land extending down the sides of the gorge.

"One thing is absolutely certain from a study of these grants," said H. H. Dean, one of the corporation attorneys, in presenting them. "Whether the lines of the survey coincide with them or not, the grants show that the legislatures of 1818 and 1819 intended to dispose of all the land around the falls, including the sides of the gorge. If they intended to do so, and if the lines of the survey fell a few feet short of reaching all the way to the river, is it fair for somebody to come forward nearly 100 years later, after millions of dollars have been spent on the land by those who had bought it, and claim that the little land bordering the river has belonged all this time to the state?"

Some Lines Yoke River.

"While three of the land lot lines fell a few feet short of the river, it is also a fact, as brought out by the testimony of the civil engineers from the University of Georgia, that some of the lines extended clear across the river, showing that the variation in the lines was due to the inaccuracy of the older survey and the danger connected with surveying such cliffs and precipices. These grants and the 1912 survey establish beyond a doubt the power company's present ownership of the land in the Tallulah gorge."

The entire evidence presented by the company's attorneys required only about three hours. They read depositions from a number of the people from whom they had bought land, including Mrs. B. A. Young Cartledge, of Atlanta.

Long Suits Over Land.

One of the main points in the company's evidence was the fact that for many years there had been disputes and lawsuits between Miss Sarah White, Mr. Moss and others over the boundaries of their lands extending clearly to the river. In all of these lawsuits it was generally accepted that the land in the gorge was owned by these private individuals, argued the company's attorneys. J. J. Reynolds, civil engineer of Rabun county, testified for them as to the disputed lines in these lawsuits extending into the property that is now claimed by the state.

Immediately upon the closing of the company's evidence, the four attorneys —Alex C. King, Luther Z. Rosser, Charles T. Hopkins and H. H. Dean—began the legal argument in the case, opposed to them being five lawyers representing the state and the conservation association—Attorney General Thomas Hewitt Felder, Edgar Watkins, R. C. Ellis, Judge W. R. Little and W. S. Paris. Judge J. B. Jones, on the bench, announced that the lawyers might have all the time they desired for the arguments.

Lines Didn't Stop at Top.

The interest of the morning's session centered in the testimony of Professor John C. Koch, of the University of Georgia, under whose supervision the 1912 survey of Tallulah Falls was made.

While he was being cross-examined by Luther Z. Rosser, one of the attorneys for the power company, a blueprint was introduced in which the land lot lines were all shown to stop at the top of the gorge, while all the land along both sides of the Tallulah river was apparently not included in the numbered land lots.

"Did you make that blue-print?" asked Mr. Rosser.

"Yes," answered Professor Koch.

"Does it represent the facts as to the land lot lines? Do they really stop at the top of the gorge, as shown here?"

"No."

"Why did you make such a drawing, then?"

"I made it at the suggestion of the attorney general, as it was wanted to attach to the petition to the legislature."

Only Part of Lines on Map.

"Do you mean to say that after you had surveyed this land and found the lines went down into the gorge, you deliberately created this map showing all the lines."

"No, the map is not a creation. It represents truly the parts of the lines which it shows, but it just doesn't show all the lines."

"This is the map, then, that was attached to the petition to the legislature."

"Yes; it was made merely to represent the contention of the state and the conservation society."

Professor Koch bore out in detail the testimony of Professor Strahan the day previous, saying that all the land lot lines of the original Tallulah Falls grants of 1818 and 1819, as resurveyed by his party in 1912, extended to the edge of the Tallulah river, except three. These three reached down into the gorge, he said, and only fell a small distance short of the river, so that practically all the land in the chasm was included in the original grants.

He testified that he found no land corners in the gorge, however, except one, and this point was used to good advantage by Edgar Watkins, representing the state, who argued that if all these lines had been intended to extend down into the gorge, a larger number of the marked trees would be standing yet.

State Concludes Evidence.

Evidence for the state was completed at the Wednesday morning session, with the testimony of Walter Hunnicutt, the Tallulah Falls photographer, who is a vice president of the conservation association; Caleb Woodall, a citizen of Tallulah Falls, and Professor John C. Koch, who with Professor Strahan headed the university survey party.

Walter Hunnicutt declared that the power company had begun work at the falls after the beginning of the state ownership action.

"They did not begin their work until about three years ago, and we had even circulated petitions prior to that time calling on the legislature to investigate the state's claim and preserve the land as a natural park," said Mr. Hunnicutt.

He testified, as did also Mr. Woodall, to the existence of trees along the top of the gorge which were pointed out to folks as being land corners, and to the general attitude of people in not treating the land in the gorge as private property.

BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY KILLS AFTER 11 DAYS

Philadelphia, Pa., May 28.—Another death from bichloride of mercury, taken by mistake for headache tablets, occurred here today. The victim, Mrs. Louis Zimmerman, 25 years old, took the poison eleven days ago. She quickly discovered her mistake, a physician was summoned, and she was removed to a hospital.

Until yesterday, Mrs. Zimmerman felt confident that she would recover, and discussing the death of B. Sanders Walker, at Macon, Ga., said to her husband:

"I ought to get well, I took such a small dose."

Her temperature and pulse were normal until shortly before her death, when she complained that she felt as though paralyzed. Physicians at the hospital entertained no hopes of effecting a cure, and say the fact that the woman lived eleven days is remarkable.

JUDGE LAMAR SPEAKS TO LAWYERS TONIGRT

Supreme Court Justice Forced to Change the Date of His Address.

Judge J. R. Lamar, of the United States supreme court, will deliver his address before the Georgia Bar association at Warm Springs, Thursday night instead of Friday morning as was originally the plan. This is due to the fact that it is necessary for Judge Lamar to be in Washington Friday.

A large delegation of Atlanta lawyers will leave this afternoon to go to Warm Springs to hear Judge Lamar Friday morning. These can still reach Warm Springs in time to hear him by taking the Southern train at 5:10 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Judge and Mrs. Lamar arrived in Atlanta from Washington on the Birmingham special Wednesday. The judge called upon the judges of the supreme court of Georgia and held an hour's chat with them before he and his wife went on to Warm Springs. Thursday night's address will constitute Judge Lamar's first appearance in Georgia since his elevation to the United States supreme bench.

Among prominent members of the Georgia Bar association who are to go to Warm Springs are Judge W. A. Little, of Columbus; Judge Joseph H. Lumpkin, of Atlanta; Judge Beverly D. Evans, of Atlanta; Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens; Orville A. Park, of Macon.

Among the Atlanta attorneys who are expected to attend the meeting of the Georgia Bar association, now in session are John Y. Smith, Hamilton Douglas, Jordan Cumming, A. A. Wright, Henry C. Peeples, John C. Tye, Judge Nash Broyles, Luther Z. Rosser, Sam H. Hewlett, Lawton Nally, D. K. Johnston, W. C. Latimer, Eugene R. Black, Sanders McDaniel, Burton Smith, H. M. Patty, Alex Smith, Judge Pendleton Gaston, Robert C. Alston, Daniel Rountree.

Judge Cobb, president of the association, will speak Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

MORTUARY

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Mrs. G. T. Reid, aged 63, died yesterday at her home on Dean street after a long illness. She is survived by five children, all of Rome, as follows: A. W. Reid, S. H. Reid, J. P. Reid and Misses Etta and Ida. The funeral took place today at the residence, being conducted by Rev. C. K. Henderson, of the Second Methodist church. Interment followed at Fellowship cemetery.

Mrs. Lena Scoggins.

Mrs. Lena Scoggins, age 37, died at the residence in Graham, Ga., Wednesday morning, and the body was brought to the parlors of Harry G Poole in Atlanta. Funeral and interment will be announced later.

James W. Roach.

James W. Roach, 19 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Roach, died at the residence, 65 Kirkwood avenue, at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The funeral will be from the residence Friday morning at 10 o'clock, and interment will be in the Atlanta Park cemetery.

Mrs. Dean F. Winn.

Mrs. Dean F. Winn, age 27, died at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternon at a private sanitarium. She is survived by her husband, her mother, Mrs. R. A. Monsalvatge and five sisters, Mrs. W. L. Marshall, Mrs. T. A. Marshall, Mrs J. R. Tomlison, Miss Edna Monsalvatge and Miss Mabel Monsalvatge, and two brothers, R. and R. F. Monsalvatge. The funeral will be at 3.30 o'clock this afternoon from the Ponce de Leon Avenue Baptist church, Rev. A. H. Gordon officiating. Interment will be in West View.

Ida W. Ross.

Mrs. Ida W. Ross, age 56, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs W. A. Meadlock, 107 Park street, West End, at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening. She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. W. A. Meadlock, two sons, Frank Ross, of Atlanta, and James Ross, of Sarmville, Ky. The body will be sent to the old home in Eufala, Ala., tonight.

Harvey Kidwell.

Harvey Kidwell died yesterday, after continued illness at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. W. Stocks, 30 Hood street. Mr. Kidwell for some time past has been prominently connected with the Southern Railway company as traveling freight agent, and his business ability, coupled with his genial nature, had won for him a host of friends. He is survived by one son, Hillard Kidwell, and three sisters, Mrs. W. H. Landell, Mrs. J. W. Stocks and Mrs. Bessie K. Hardy. The funeral will be at 3 o'clock this afternoon from St. Paul's Methodist church. In*terment will be in Oakland.*

$3,000,000 FAILURE BLAMED ON BILLINGS

Chicago, May 28.—Attempts to hold C. K. G. Billings, banker of New York and Chicago, responsible for approximately $5,000,000 due to the failure of the Home and Chicago banks, were begun in the circuit court here today. Stockholders who brought suits charged that Billings' negligence as a director permitted Walsh to operate schemes which led to the wrecking of both banks.

The amount lost by the Chicago National bank is placed at $3,500,000, and the Home bank losses at $1,500,000.

The demurrer of Mr. Billings is on file, attacking the sufficiency of the allegations and stating that the other directors should be made parties to the suits.

A plan to accept $152,125 from Mr. Billings in full settlement of his liability was prevented by an order of Judge Tuthill, who appointed W. C. Niblack receiver for the banks. Arguments on the suits were set for next Tuesday.

RAILWAY CONDUCTORS RE-ELECT GARRETSON

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—A B. Garretson tonight was re-elected president of the Order of Railway Conductors. The choice was made by acclamation, and all the other officers of the organization were re-elected in the same manner. Two new vice presidents, making a total of seven, instead of five as in the past, will be chosen tomorrow when the convention, which has been in session here since May 19, is expected to close.

AT THE THEATERS

Musical Comedy Tabloid.

(At the Bijou.)

The District Leader, the tabloid musical comedy is scoring a distinct hit this week at the Bijou and in addition to the many pretty musical numbers and dances, the play has a strong plot that holds the attention of the audience from beginning to end.

For next week, the management announces one of the biggest musical comedy attractions of the season in "The College Girls." This is said to be one of the most expensive organizations playing the popular priced circuit and will doubtless be one of the big successes of the season at the Bijou.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

It has been evidenced time and time again that vaudeville is a most popular form of entertainment, and that bills of the caliber of the present at*traction a the busy Forsyth, where the* best quality of Keith vaudeville is served at all times, will always draw attraction at the busy Forsyth, where the theater has become famous. The Great Howard, in ventriloquil entertainment; Caesar Nesi in songs and Madden and Fitzpatrick in a comedy sketch with piano playing help make the show a real entertainment.

"The Resurrection."

(At The Grand.)

Though modern dramatic producers have succeeded in transferring to the stage many wonderfully realistic effects, they constantly are cramped by the limited bounds of the proscenium, the impossibility of producing a scene covering a great exterior. And in this field the motion picture producers have found their opportunity. It is as easy for the camera to cover a mile as a yard. Perhaps this has never been shown more fully than in the latest production from the "movie" makers, Tolstoy's great drama, "The Resurrection," in which Blanche Walsh has the leading role.

"The Resurrection" will open at the *Grand opera house Thursday and con*tinue through the week, from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10:30 o'clock at night.

WARDLAW AND CARAWAY TO REPRESENT TYPOS

At the election of delegates from Atlanta Typographical union, No. 48, Wednesday, to attend the fifty-ninth session of the International Typographical union, in Nashville, Tenn., next August, W. S. Wardlaw, of The Atlanta Constitution, and W. C. Caraway, of The Atlanta Journal, were elected.

Although there were four candidates named on the official ballot, these two popular members of No. 48 were elected by a large majority to represent the Atlanta printers at the big Nashville meeting.

"Sacred Harp" Singing.

There will be sacred harp singing at Decatur in the superior courthouse next Sunday, commencing at 9 o'clock. It will be in order to bring dinners and spread them on the sidewalks and in the shade, according to J. L. White, president of the Sacred Harp society.

HARDWARE MEN OPEN CONVENTION

Georgia Retail Association Has Attractive Displays in Taft Hall in Auditorium. Mayor Welcomes Visitors.

The Georgia Retail Hardware association opened its eighth annual convention in Taft hall yesterday morning with an attendance of 200 members, T. G. Green, of Eatonton, president presiding, with John L. Moore, of Madison, secretary-treasurer, at his desk.

For more than an hour before the convention was called to order by President Green its members and the large number of visitors drawn to Atlanta by the convention walked leisurely through the main auditorium of the Army inspecting the most attractive and, to the hardware dealers, interesting collection of exhibits arranged for their inspection. The big floor had been divided into sections allotted to manufacturers for a display of products handled by retail hardware men throughout the state.

One section showed Georgia made stoves, another Georgia made harness, another wagons and buggies, made in Georgia, out of Georgia-grown timber, and yet another presented all kinds of tools from a big circular saw to a small rattle file.

As President Green called the convention to order he lost no time in presenting Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, who, in a few words, welcomed the retail hardware men of the state to Atlanta. Following President Moore's welcome there was an invocation by Rev. W. R. Hendrix. It was then that Mayor James G. Woodward expressed officially the pleasure Atlanta derived from the convention of the hardware men.

P. S. Twitty, of Dublin, in a happy brief talk, responded for the association to the addresses of welcome, while President Green's annual address closed the morning session.

The afternoon session was given up to the annual report of Secretary-Treasurer Moore, which, while brief, covered fully and interestingly to the members of the association its life within the last year. Then came the appointment of committees on auditing and resolutions by President Green followed by unfinished business. The afternoon session was closed with addresses by R. W. Hatcher, of Milledgeville; G. W. Woodruff, of Winder; C. B. Thomas, of Griffin; P. S. Twitty, of Dublin; J. R. Hall, of Moultrie, and W. G. Raines, of Statesboro.

During the evening the entire membership of the association were entertained at eh Forsyth theater as the guests of the Atlanta retail and wholesale hardware dealers.

HUNDREDS OF ESSAYS SUBMITTED BY PUPILS AGAINST HOUSE FLY

Four hundred essays on "How to Prevent the Fly" from pupils in all the public schols of Atlanta were submitted to Dr. Claude A. Smith, chairman of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce committee on health, yesterday. The essays in question are the two best from each grade written in the chamber of commerce prize contest. Several thousand pupils in the various schools wrote essays, but only the two best in each grade were forwarded to Dr. Smith.

The prizes to be awarded are as follows: $10 for the best composition by a pupil of either of the high schols, $10 for the best and $5 for the second bast composition by a pupil of the seventh or eighth grades and similar prizes to pupils of the fifth or sixth grades.

SOVEREIGN SECRETARY YATES IS ENTERTAINED BY ATLANTA WOODMEN

Local members of the Order of Woodmen of the World entertained their sovereign secretary, John T. Yates, of Omaha, Neb., at an informal reception at Cable hall Tuesday night. There was a good attendance of members of J. C. Root Camp, No. 80, to hear the sovereign secretary tell of the work that was being done by the order, particularly in the west.

Dr. F. L. Rosenthal, of Columbus, Ga., head counsel, representing the 600 camps of Woodmen in Georgia, presented Mr. Yates to the local camp. On the stage, with the speaker and Dr. Rosenthal, were William A. Roane and Newton Philipps, sovereigns of the local lodge.

ATLANTA KEPT COOL ALL DAY WEDNESDAY

A steady breeze that seemed to take the strength from the sun's rays kept Atlanta cool Wednesday and prevented the heat being felt even during the middle part of the day. The highest temperature registered was 75 degrees at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 7 o'clock in the morning the mercury reached only to the 62-degree mark.

The temperature today will be nearer normal for this time of the year. The forecast shows a slightly rising temperature with continued fair weather. According to Forecaster C. F. von Herrmann, the maximum temperature of the day will be about 79 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternon.

LUTHER GLENN FREE; GIVES BOND OF $250

Luther J. Glenn, who was recently brought back from Houston, Texas, where he had eloped with Mrs. Ione Pidcock, wife of one of Georgia's railroad presidents, was released on bond of $250 yesterday. Since his return he has been in the Tower in default of a $1,000 bond, which his wife secured on a ne exeat after filing her divorce suit. The bond was finally reduced to $250, and this was made Wednesday by Glenn's father and he was allowed to go free.

ALLEN AND ANDERSON EACH CLAIM SAME VOTE

Both Declare That They Are Winners and Each Says 27 Senators Are for Him.

Hon. John T. Allen, senator-elect, passed through Atlanta yesterday on his way to the annual meeting of the State Bar association, at Warm Springs.

Hon. Randolph Anderson, senator-elect from Savannah, had passed through Atlanta a day or two previous, and while here gave utterance to an interview in The Constitution, in which he stated that twenty-seven senators were positively committed to him for the presidency of the senate.

"Now, that's the most remarkable thing I ever heard," said Senator Allen yesterday, "for Randolph has just gotten hold of my count, and he knows that I have the unequivocal support of twenty-seven senators in my race as president of the senate. I am just as certain to be elected as I live—that is, if any faith can be placed in the assurance of good men."

So there it is—now you see it, and now you don't!

Senator Anderson claims that he has 27 out of 44 votes, and the only difference between his count and that of Senator Allen is that the latter holds that out of the 44 votes he has 27.

The election will take place on the fourth Wednesday in June, when the general assembly meets, and one thing is certain—and is, that whether it be Allen or Anderson, the senate will have a splendid presiding officer.

Iron Worker Hurt.

G. T. Pruitt, an iron worker, living at 71 Walthall street, was crushed by a swinging beam on the Healy building Wednesday. He was taken to the Grady hospital, where it was found that his leg was badly injured. Pruitt and a companion worker were caught against a wall by a swinging girder. Pruitt's companion escaped injury.

GETS $4,500 VERDICT

Cordele Woman Gets Big Damages From G., S. & F.

Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Mrs. C. B. Shobe was given a verdict of $4,500 in the superior court of Crisp county today against the Georgia, Southern and Florida railway.

The plaintiff alleges that she was in a buggy in company with two young ladies, and that they were about to drive over a crossing of this road when a passenger train appeared suddenly from behind some box cars, which obscured their view, the horse becoming frightened and ran away, and that she was thrown from the buggy and internally and permanently injured when two wheels of the vehicle passed over her body. Mrs. Shobe's suit was for $10,000.

The case was hard fought by able counsel on both sides.

11,520 Cans of Green Peas in Augusta Grocery Stores Condemned by Inspectors

Augusta, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Government pure food inspectors condemned 11,520 cans of green peas in 435 cases in the stocks of a dozen groceries of this city yesterday on the grounds that they were "sour, decomposed and unfit for food," following complaints from citizens who suffered mild attacks of ptomaine poison after eating contents of cans of this brand. The peas were Celtic brand, packed by S. H. Levin's Sons, of Philadelphia.

The inspector from Savannah visited every grocery store in the city and seized every can he found. Merchants told the inspector that the goods had been paid for. Consequently, they will lose their money. The decayed stuff was sold the wholesale groceries under the decait that it was not the class of goods demanded in the northern markets, and that the company was endeavoring to dispose of their large stock and at greaty reduced prices.

PECAN GROWERS MEET

Number of Speeches Heard by Representatives at Thomasville.

Thomasville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) The Georgia and Florida Pecan Growers' association convened here this morning in the Tosco hotel, and there are in attendance a large representation not only of the members, but of others nterested in the business, which has become an established industry for this section.

The program opened with an address, president of the association.

"Looking Ahead" was the subject of the talk made by ex-President C. A. Vandusee, of the National Nut Growers' association.

A pleasant feature of the meeting was the automobile ride given this afternoon to the visitors, who had an opportunity of seeing the pecan groves and other places of interest around the county.

The meeting will hold through tomorrow.

T. R. NEVER DRUNK, DECLARES FRIENDS

the same question was put to each witness:

"Have you ever known Mr. Roosevelt to be under the influence of liquor?" or "Have you ever smelt liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?" and the answer invariably was negative. Just as often questions were put as to whether the colonel was in the habit of drinking intoxicants regularly in any quantities, and the answer again was negative.

Mr. O'Loughlin, who said he had known Colonel Roosevelt for many years, put a degree of positiveness to his answers by saying:

"I not only never knew of the colonel's being under the influence of liquor, but any suggestion that he ever was, appeared to me, on account of my intimate acquaintance with him, to be absolutely silly."

It was a question put to Mr. O'Loughlin that brought about the argument of attorneys over the admissibility of certain testimony. Mr. O'Loughlin was asked whether he had heard a general report circulated among newspaper men that the colonel was in the habit of getting drunk. After the court ruling, he was permitted to answer. His answer was that he had such rumors, but that he regarded them as wholly unfounded and not worthy of notice.

Mr. Newberry and Mr. Bacon were equally positive as to Colonel Roosevelt's habits of sobriety.

Memories of the Cuban campaign were brought to Colonel Roosevelt as he sat in the courtroom. A telegram was handed him from Hugh T. Halbert, of St. Paul, Minn., referring to a letter which the colonel wrote while in camp in Cuba to L. Guttmann, at Corsicana, Texas, about the use of whisky among soldiers while on duty.

It is likely that Colonel Roosevelt's side of the case will be completed tomorrow. Among those still to take the stand are Gifford Pinchot, James R. Garfield, Regis H. Post, Lawrence Abbott, William Loeb, Jr., W. Emlen Roosevelt, a cousin of the colonel, and two secret service men who traveled with the colonel when he was president.

Important Ruling Made.

On the question whether Mr. Newett might show that other newspapers published reports that Colonel Roosevelt was addicted to excessive drinking and whether individuals heard such reports, the court this afternoon ruled that such evidence cannot be admitted. This was considered by Colonel Roosevelt's attorneys as a victory for them, since it will exclude the so-called hearsay evidence as contained in many depositions.

Defense counsel interpreted the ruling to permit witnesses to testify to the "general reputation" of Colonel Roosevelt, with reference to his personal habits.

Judge Flanagan's ruling was as follows:

"The Michigan rule is very well settled that the general reputation of the plaintiff is a matter that the defendant may dispute—that is, his general reputation previous to the publication of the alleged libelous article—and evidence of that nature will be received.

"The other question is as to whether or not the defendant may show that other newspapers published similar charges and may show that it was reported among men that the plaintiff was guilty of similar offenses. The court is very well satisfied that the defendant is not entitled to that testimony, and no testimony of that nature will be received.

"Gilson Gardner, a witness yesterday, testified under direct examination to the opinion of certain correspondents in Washington. That testimony will have to be considered drawn out by the plaintiff. I think the defendant will have the right to rebut that statement if he is able to do so.

"Whether or not the defendant will be entitled to show the source of his information for the purpose of establishing good faith on his part and belief in the truth of the article must turn, it seems to me, on the other question of whether or not the damages may be increased by reason of actual malice in the publication and the court will not pass upon that question now. That question may be properly raised and argued when that testimony is offered. That disposes of all the pending questions, I think."

(Exception taken by Mr. Belden).

Mr. Belden: "May we not ask newspaper men like Mr. O'Laughlin in reference to this charge published in large papers in the country?"

Judge Flannagan: "Publications of similar matters by other newspapers are not accepted in mitigation of damages."

Recalled to the stand, with the jury present, O'Laughlin was further examined by the plaintiff.

No Liquor on Breath.

"Did you ever smell liquor on Mr. Roosevelt's breath?"

"Never."

"What do you say as to his language, was it clean or profane?"

"Colonel Roosevelt has one of the cleanest minds of any man I ever knew."

"Was he ever profane?"

"Never profane."

Gilson Gardner, another Washington newspaper man, who testified yesterday, was recalled and examined by the defense. His brief testimony was a repetition of what he had previously given.

Robert Bacon, former secretary of state, and former ambassador to France, next testified. His testimony in substance was:

"I was born in Boston in 1860. I lived in Boston until 1894, when I moved to New York.

"I was in business there until 1902, when I retired for a year or two, after which, in September, 1905, I became assistant secretary of state under Mr. Roosevelt. I continued as assistant secretary of state until January, 1909, when I was appointed secretary of state for the remainder of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. In December, 1909, I was appointed ambassador to France by President Taft, from which position I resigned in May, 1912, to become a Fellow of Harvard college, which position I now hold."

"I have known Theodore Roosevelt intimately for about thirty-six years, having been a classmate of his at Harvard college, where we graduated in 1880. At college he was one of the cleanest-minded, most fearless boys I have ever known. He was always in the best of training physically, one of his chief recreations being wrestling and boxing. He was a good fighter, and I think the fairest fighter I have ever known.

"As he went back to New York after graduation, I did not see as much of him for the next ten or twelve years, but was in constant touch with him, our families being intimate.

In Best of Training.

"For the next ten years we were both so busy that I was not brought into close daily contact with him, but continued our intimate association. During the four years that I was in the state department under Roosevelt's administration, I saw him constantly, almost every day, at all times of the day and night, officially and unofficially, and frequently lunched or dined with him. The president was always in the best of physical training, reserving several hours every day for different kinds of hard exercise, boxing and in other ways. Some of us who were his most intimate friends in the government always accompanied him.

"On his return from Africa, Mr. Roosevelt spent a week at my house in Paris, where I was with him every moment of the day or night, except when he was sleeping, and since my return I have often seen him either at his own house or mine, for we lived near, either in the country on Long Island.

"During all my life long association with Mr. Roosevelt, and especially in the four years of my closest personal daily contact in Washington, I know that it was impossible for him to have been a drinking man without my knowledge. He is not and never has been.

"I know very few men who have been so abstemious and temperate. His whole life, both public and private, has been clean and decent, in thought, speech, action and any suggestion or statement that he has ever been anything but abstemious and temperate to the highest degree is unqualifiedly false.

"Of this all his friends and intimates are absolutely sure, and I have never heard from anyone even the least suspicion to the contrary."

Only one question was put to Mr. Bacon by the defense.

"You were with Mr. Roosevelt on his trips around the country?"

"Never."

THIS THIEF SCORNS JEWELS AND SILVER, BUT STEALS BUTTER

When Mrs. Y. R. Durham returned from the city to her home at 15 Willow street last night at 8:30 she found that her house had been broken open, silverware which she prized highly, strewn over the floor, and a trunk in which she had some valuables deposited, with a lock broken, and the contents scattered about the house.

Upon further investigation she found that nothing, not even her locket, which had been taken out of a jewelry case, was missing—but when she went out on the back porch, several pounds of butter, and about a score of eggs are nowhere to be found.

Call Officers Miam and Wood were hurried to the scene from the police station, but found that no trace of the burglar or burglars could be found.

The supposition is that the thief was looking for money, and was afraid to take any of the jewelry or plate, all of which was marked with monograms. The fact that butter and eggs were missing seemed to indicate that some dusky visitor had been prowling about, who decided that such was about as valuable as anything to him, and so made way with it.

The house in which Mrs. Durham is staying is rented from W. S. St. John, who is at present out of the city.

(At the Atlanta.)

"St. Elmo," which was picked by the Atlanta public as its favorite play, is drawing the largest houses of the stock season at the Atlanta. The last four performances will be given tonight, Friday, Saturday matinee and night. Miss Long and Mr. Vail have scored heavily in their parts and the play is being received with enthusiasm. Wednesday's matinee crowd was the largest of the season. Tonight the outlook is for a big crowd, as the sale is heavy.

WORK ON NEW CREMATORY WILL BE CONTINUED UNTIL STOPPED BY COURT ORDER

The decision of the supreme court, came like a bolt of lightning from a clear sky on the contracting company that is building the crematory plant. In order to get one unit ready for the disposal of garbage by the 16th of June as promised, the work is being pressed night and day. There are thirty masons now engaged on the job besides a large crops of helpers, seventy to eighty men in all. They were at work by artificial light until a late hour last night.

It is the intention of those in charge of the construction of the crematory to continue the work until they are actually compelled to desist by order of court. In this connection, the engineer in charge, P. D. Canham, said last night:

"We are going right ahead with our work. We have a large force, about thirty masons, between seventy and eighty men in all, and they are working until a late hour at night to get the first unit ready for operation by June 15. Of course, the Destructor company is not a philanthropic concern primarily nor are we working for charity, but we realize that the city will be in a bad dilemma this summer without any arrangement made for the disposal of its garbage unless we can get a part of our plant in operating order next month. This is why we have been advancing the construction as rapidly as possible. We would work all night if anything could be gained by it.

"One unit is figured to take care of eighty-five tons of garbage daily, but under pressure I believe it can easily consume one hundred. Without the plant that we are building the city will have no means available of disposing of its garbage and I dread to think what will be the effect upon the public health if the garbage is allowed to accumulate and rot in the city.

"Naturally we are somewhat surprised at the decision that the higher court rendered against us. We had such an easy victory in the superior court where Judge Bell, after hearing a long argument from the attorney on the other side, did not even consider it necessary to hear from us. That gave us confidence that the law was on our side and that we would win in the supreme court as well."

Mr. Evans, of Evans, Spence & Moore, attorneys for the contracting company, said:

"I have just heard of the decision rendered against the crematory contract, and, of course, I cannot express an opinion on it until I have had an opportunity to read over the whole decision. I do not believe, however, that the work will be stopped. We will go right ahead with the work until we are compelled to quit by an order of court."

C. P. Goree, attorney for the taxpayers who sought to enjoin the city and the contract, was jubilant over the victory.

"It means that the Destructor company will be compelled to stop work on the plant as soon as the judgement of the supreme court is made the judgment of the court below, which will be within ten days. Attorneys for the city and the consrtuction company will have ten days in which to ask for a rehearing of the case and, unless they can prevail on the court to reopen the case which I do not believe likely, the remittur of the supreme court will go down to the superior court in ten days and then Judge Bell will have no alternative but to make it the judgment of his court and to enforce the injunction. The Destructor company will then be compelled to get off of the ground and they cannot look to the city to pay for any of the work they have done."

CREMATORY CONTRACT DECLARED NOT LEGAL

violate the constitution On this head the court declares:

"Nothing in this decision prevents the mayor and council of the city of Atlanta from erecting a crematory in such manner as will not violate the constitution, or from submitting to the qualified voters the question of whether the city shall incur an indebtedness if duly authorized by the voters in the manner prescribed by the constitution. But the city contractor must be restrained from creating a debt on the part of the city without the authority of the qualified voters, and from carrying out a contract entered into without such lawful authority which will have such an effect."

Wednesday's decision was on an appeal from the decision of Judge George Bell, in Fulton superior court, in which Judge Bell held that the contract was a legal one and refused to grant an injunction asked for by J. N. Ransone, Charles Austin, N. M. Daniels, J. S. Jarvis, F. L. Sawyer and Dr. J. W. Mitchell, taxpayers of the city of Atlanta. The higher court reverses the decision of Judge Bel and holds that the performance of contract should have been enjoined. The plaintiffs in the suit were represented by C. P. Goree, the city by James L. Mayson and W. D. Ellis, Jr., and the Destructor company by Evans, Spence and Moore.

City Confronted By Serious Problem.

That the city would be confronted with a more serious problem in the disposal of garbage this summer than it ever has been before was the opinion of Dr. W. E. Quillian, president of the city board of health. When asked what action the board would take as a result of the enjoining of the work on the crematory plant, he said:

"I do not know what the board will do as yet. In fact, I scarcely know what we can do in the matter of garbage disposal further than we have been doing, that is dumping the garbage and in some cases burying it. Of course, this will be bad, and if the heated season is prolonged, it may have very deleterious effects upon the general health of the city; but it is the best that we can do under the circumstances.

"I think it is particularly unfortunate that we should be compelled to abandon the crematory now, when we have the plant almost ready for operation. I have made a careful investigation of the work, and I believe that the plant when completed would be one of the most up-to-date and efficient in the whole country. It would solve the problem of garbage disposal for Atlanta for many years to come. Of course, I would not undertake to criticise the court, but I hate to think that whenever any great work looking to the progress of the city and the improvement of the public health is undertaken, something should arise to block it. And yet that seems to be the case.

"One thing that we can congratulate ourselves upon is that Providence has been very kind to us so far. The cool weather has prevented the garbage dumps from being the annoyance and the danger that they would have been otherwise. But cool weather cannot last all summer and when the hot season begins in earnest, the board of health will have its hands full in coping with the situation. I can tell you."

Council Members Liable, Says Mayor.

The decision of the supreme court in this case precludes the possibility of municipalities in Georgia being bankrupted through the reckless expenditure of money by incompetent city officials," declared Mayor James L. Woodward, leader of the crematory fight, last night.

"I have contended all along that the city was spending $100,000 too much for the plant. For about $125,000 Atlanta can install a system which will cut down the expense of long hauls through the city. My fight has been to save the people money and at the same time give them the most practical plant possible."

Mayor Woodward was asked what he would do toward forcing the Destructor company to stop work on the contract. He replied:

"The company will not lose anything, for there is a section of the code which makes every member of council who voted for the contract liable for the payment of every cent of the $378,500. The court says that the contract is illegal; just as I have always contended, and I don't see anything else for the city to do than to order them from the city property.

Jentzen Caring For Garbage.

"There is no more danger of sickness from open dump piles now than there was before the old plant. Chief Jentzen has been taking care of the garbage satisfactorily. I have heard a few complaints, but they did not amount to very much. The thing for council to do now is to make another contract; this time with a view of conserving the interests of the people, and not the contractors."

Mayor Woodward said that in less than a year more than $700,000 in illegal debts have been fastened on the taxpayers by council. He intimated that he was going after the $135,000 fire alarm system the city made with the Okenite company.

"It is the same sort of a contract, made on a moral obligation such as the supreme court has declared to be illegal. I can show that the city is paying at least $50,000 too much for that system.

"The people of Atlanta are clamoring for improvements that are greatly needed. The English Commercial high school should have received an appropriation of at least $75,000 last January. Instead, council wanted to pay $50,000 on this contract. The Davis school needs money. How are they going to get it? The people were promised that there would be money enough for the high school in the Jung sheet. As I understand it there is only council has been making illegal debts, council has been making illegal debts, Atlanta would be a bankrupt within the next twelve months.

"Every municipality in Georgia owes the court its thanks for the decision because incompetent officials can now be prevented from throwing them into bankruptcy."

Burns Files Libel Suit Against Minister Who Calls Him a Murderer

Calgary, Alta., May 28.—Representatives of the crown who have been conducting the investigation into the death of Luther McCarty today are gathering a mass of evidence which will be presented when the cases of Arthur Pelkey and Tommy Burns are called.

That Burns, promoter of the fight in which McCarty met his death, and Pelkey, whose blow in the first few minutes of the intial round resulted in the fatality, will have to face trial on the charge of manslaughter, was the principal development that followed the rearrest of Pelkey yesterday, after the coroner's jury had failed to make any charges against him. Meanwhile, William McCarney and Referee Ed Smith were out on $500 bail each, and ordered to appear as witnesses.

Another development was the filing by Burns of a suit for criminal libel against a minister of the city, who is alleged to have denounced the promoters of the fight as "murderers, who should be deported."

Every Man Likes Pie

And every man can eat it without taking a moment's thought about digestion when the pie crust is light, flaky, tender as you can make it with

Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard

This recipe makes perfect pie crust. Try it:

Mix ½ teaspoon salt into 1½ cups flour; work in ¼ cup Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard, moisten with water, roll out. Spread with tablespoonful Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard, dredge with flour, roll up like jelly roll, pat and roll out, roll up again and cut off enough for lower crust. Roll out remainder for upper crust and when ready for oven put few small dots Silver-Leaf Lard on top.

Shortening that makes good pie crust will make tasty pastry of all kinds. Swift's Silver-Leaf Lard is put up in tight covered, new tin pails. Every one bears the Government inspection stamp guaranteeing the purity and wholesomeness of the lard. Buy a pail.

LIKE BLIND BELISARIUS.

Rich Georgia appears like blind, begging Belisarius at the gate when it comes to providing vital educational facilities for the coming generation. The simile is fully justified by the modest petition the students of the University of Georgia are making to the forthcoming session of the legislature. The statistics comparing the income of Georgia's university with incomes of other southern universities in her class, and distant institutions likewise comparable to Georgia, should blister with shame the cheek of every thoughtful citizen of this state.

The institution is and has for ten years been in imperative need of a new dormitory, a new dining-hall and a central heating plant. The facilities in all three of these directions are now disgracefully inadequate. The efficiency of the highest educational institution in the state, the institution from the doors of which have gone many of the men who made American history, is actually impaired. On the count of heating alone it costs more to maintain the expensive and unsatisfactory individual heating system now in use than it would to maintain a central plant supplying the entire university. The initial cost stands in the way, and each succeeding year the legislature has cried poor and withheld a sufficient appropriation.

The claim that Georgia is not able to take proper care of the university is preposterous. The total annual income of the university from all sources is $163,039. The total income of Alabama's university, and Alabama is not nearly so rich or populous as Georgia, is $239,914. North Carolina, which also is poorer than Georgia in people and resources, gives her university $175,023. Tennessee, not comparable to Georgia, gives hers $167,023. Texas, the only state in the column larger than Georgia, spends $239,230 on her university. Georgia is, therefore, all allowances made, at the bottom of the list of these southern states in the amount allowed her highest educational institution.

Comparisons with universities of the central states, comparable relatively to Georgia, disclose nothing to Georgia's advantage. Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin all spend more than a million on their universities. Minnesota spends nearly a million and a half. Missouri spends $640,197.

Save Texas, Georgia is wealthier than any of the southern states that outstrip her in university expenditures. And if states like Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, with only relative difference in resources, can spend more than a million on their universities, surely Georgia should be enabled to spend half a million, or as much as Missouri, $640,000.

Far from doing so, Georgia stints her sons studying at the university, not of comforts or luxuries, but of the positive necessities of life. Proper heating, dining and sleeping facilities are indispensable to health, efficiency, life. And Georgia curtails these at the university, and has been doing so for years.

How long will the people of this wealthy state subscribe to the tacit indictment that they are willing to spend infinitely less on their highest institution of learning than poorer states?

THE EVER-WITH-US JINGO.

At a recent dinner in Washington, it will be remembered, Secretary Bryan sharply attacked the newspapers that made use of flaring and exaggerated headlines to foster war spirit. His latest activity is an official denial of a dispatch sent out from San Francisco and published in Japanese newspapers to the effect that this government was strengthening its defenses in Hawaii and the Philippines. Mr. Bryan states that no undue significance is to be attached to these maneuvers, which are a part of the regular routine of the war department.

The jingo will probably be the last species of demagogue to walk the plank in this country. By a curious contradiction, while he is among the most dangerous types of perverted statesmanship, he is one of the most difficult to reach. Of recent times he has been particularly active. He has worked on the public hustings and through the press. The slightest routine indication of activity on part of the war department has been sufficient to furnish him material for a war scare. He has never wearied in stirring up racial animosities by studied misrepresentations and distortions.

The last to suffer in the event of hostilities, the jingo is the first to willingly thrust thousands of lives on the hazard, endanger prosperity and plunge the country into debt from which it will be generations in escaping. We are still paying for past wars. The huge pension lists from these affairs absorb national resources that should be expended in other directions. Yet the jingo, unmindful of this and other penalties of war, continues cheerfully his murderous propaganda. Few influences outside America so insidiously menace the public welfare as does this foe from within.

CHIEF BEAVERS' STATEMENT

Elsewhere on this page we publish a statement from Chief of Police James L. Beavers and comment thereon, both statement and comment being self-explanatory.

Many years spent in the public service make unnecessary any statement from The Constitution regarding its position on issues involving the public morals or the public welfare, even if the chief had not himself corrected an interview which, without a statement from him, may have been misinterpreted.

Chief Beavers has set the record straight with reference to any utterance of his that may have been susceptible to misconstruction.

As to the chief himself, The Constitution repeats the substance of its editorial of September 26 reproduced elsewhere under the caption, "A Wholesome Example." That editorial was published two days after the closing of the restricted district. No more vigorous editorial commendation of the chief's course has been published since. He merits today the words then so emphatically spoken in the first editorial utterance of any Atlanta newspaper on the subject of the chief's course.

"LIFE" WILL BE FAIR.

The following editorial extract from The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser apropos the sob artists and newspaper ghost-dancers who have been misrepresenting Georgia is self-explanatory:

> The Literary Digest, which was taken in by the famous Ollie Taylor fake, sent out of Atlanta, announces itself ready to do the handsome thing, so it will apologize for being deceived by the fakers who sent out the lying fake.
> Life, the New York publication which used this patent fake to spatter mud on the people of the south in its campaign of abuse against such states as Georgia and Alabama, is not expected to make an apology. Life has neither the purpose nor the ability to be fair. When northern commentators on southern conditions run across any newspaper story describing the brutality and cruelty of the southern people, it would be well for them to confirm the story before becoming hysterically abusive. The unscrupulous correspondents of northern papers in southern cities have found out they have the best chance to sell a southern story if it contains an account of cruelty or injustice, to reflect on the people of this section.

We are sure our contemporary is a trifle hasty in condemning Life. When corrected by The Constitution, the editor of Life wrote, declaring that the basis of the Taylor fake had been gathered from several newspaper reports, and that in cases of this nature corrections were often set forth too late to overtake the original harm. A spirit to do the fair thing was clearly manifested, and we are sure Life will fully measure up to its first obligation in the premises.

Give it time!

Says The Washington Post: "Science has discovered that the bear is cousin to the sea lion, but even a Georgia razorback represents the idea of kinship to the end-seat hog."

"There's big money in good literature," says an exchange. Not a penny—not a red! The editor should have written, "in popular literature."

The man who thinks he is going to set the world on fire couldn't pay the water bill to put the fire out.

Rare thing for a fisherman to write a book. He's afraid of some critic telling him he's another.

Chief Beavers Answers the Suggestion That He Criticised The Constitution

In a statement given the press yesterday Chief of Police James L. Beavers denies the suggestion that he criticised The Constitution as being adverse to his anti-vice crusade. His statement follows:

"Atlanta, Ga., May 27.

"My attention has been called to an article in the Sunday papers in which an interview with me makes it appear that I was attacking Mr. Clark Howell personally and his policy with The Constitution.

"I only repeated the conversation I had with him on the next day after he returned from Panama on about March 1, this year.

"I meant no reflection on Mr. Howell, but only had reference to certain local reports in his paper, and he now assures me that there was no intention on his part to discredit the work which I have been trying to do in this city, and that the article that appeared in the reportorial columns of The Constitution was without his knowledge and consent, and that it was not his intention nor does he approve of anything that would in the least hinder or discredit the work that the police department has been trying to carry out.

"I would regret very much indeed to have any utterance of mine construed into an attack upon Mr. Howell, whom I have always regarded, and now esteem, as an exemplary citizen and journalist who holds the merited confidence of the public, as he does of my department and of myself. J. L. BEAVERS.

"Chief of Police."

The Constitution's Position.

Commenting upon Chief Beavers' statement, Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, said:

"During my absence in Panama in January, a police raid was made on a certain downtown rooming hotel. The Constitution next morning locally reported the affair, and the fact that a man and his wife were subjected to undue treatment, with comment from the inadvertent victims and the manager of the hotel.

"When I returned from Panama the chief complained of the local report referred to. I explained to him that nothing was further from our intention than to discredit his work, and that following The Constitution's oft-repeated commendation of his high sense of duty in endeavoring to enforce the law, he would have our cordial support to that end.

"He thanked me, recalling the fact that two days after the houses were closed I had sent for him to tell him that his attitude would have The Constitution's support.

"Next morning—September 26—The Constitution's leading editorial, 'A Wholesome Example,' unqualifiedly approved the chief as 'an official with the nerve and the courage to enforce the law,' stating that 'he has set a singularly wholesome example of a blunt interpretation of duty.'

"I am still of the opinion that no good citizen would invite the return of the segregated district, nor the spread of its attendant evil in other directions. In my talk with the chief I expressed my doubt as to his ability to absolutely eliminate the evil, and while the segregated district has been closed we are still wrestling with other phases of the problem.

"I think the chief is doing the best he can, and he should have the support of all good citizens in his efforts."

Beavers Indorsed September 26.

Two days after the closing of the restricted district The Constitution published, September 26, 1912, a leading editorial under the caption, "A Wholesome Example," commending Chief Beavers' course. This was the first editorial utterance of any Atlanta newspaper on the subject. The editorial follows:

"A WHOLESOME EXAMPLE."

"Whatever public sentiment may be as to the wisdom of the peremptory manner in which Chief Beavers has proceeded to close the houses of prostitution in Atlanta, it will not be divided in unqualified approval of an official with the nerve and the courage to enforce the law whatever the law may be and wherever its enforcement may lead.

"The law forbade the presence in the city of resorts of ill-repute. The chief had taken oath to uphold, not one law, but all laws. That he developed the bravery to follow his sworn duty is a guarantee that Atlanta has at the head of its police department a man who may be relied upon to execute to the letter whatever ordinances or statutes are framed for the city's government.

"There are some who argue that the enforcement of laws touching intimate, social problems—such as the one under discussion—should be left to the personal discretion of the man at the head of the police authorities.

"That reasoning would work admirably were it possible to have always as chief of police a man gifted with omniscience as well as the one under discussion. It would, then, be safe to vest in him discretionary as well as executive functions.

"But a successor to Chief Beavers might not develop his superb courage. He might, instead, construe the laws according to his own individual peculiarities, applying those he decided ought to be applied and making dead letters of others for which perhaps the entire community clamored. It requires no imagination to see that such a condition has in it all the makings of chaos.

"If a law is vicious, unsound or unreasonable it will eventually fall of its own weight. But until it is repealed, it is a law, has all the force of law, and is entitled to be applied without quibble or qualification. Public sentiment makes laws; courts construe them; the authorities execute them. In an era that sometimes thwarts and perverts our democratic scheme of government, Chief Beavers has set a singularly wholesome example of a blunt interpretation of duty."

A Little Spring Song.

(By Alice Louise Austin, Age 11.)

I.

As the brook flowed along
Through the meadows one day,
It sang a little spring song
And then ran on its way.

II.

It gurgled soft and low
All of the night and day,
Into the sea it did go,
Until it lost its way.

The World's Mysteries

WAS AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE ACHIEVED BY A LIE?

Was American independence achieved through a lie? It was gravely asserted some years since from a New England pulpit that it was, and in a heated discussion that followed such an attempt to stigmatize our independence, the question resolved itself into one of morals, the point at issue being how far is it right to deceive an enemy in time of war.

That stratagem was used successfully is certain, but the history of the world is full of such instances, both in love and war. The facts, upon which the charge regarding our independence was based, are as follows:

General Clinton, the commander-in-chief of the British forces, was in New York with a portion of the British army, while Lord Cornwallis, with another portion, was in Virginia. Washington, assisted by General Knox and Count Rochambeau, determined to attack Cornwallis. In order to prevent Clinton from sending assistance to that general attack Cornwallis. In order to prevent Clinton from sending assistance to that general attack Cornwallis. In order to prevent Clinton, was to be attacked in New York. Letters to this effect were written to several American officers, some of which, by design, fell into Clinton's hands.

Ovens were built near New York to bake bread for the besieging force; other feints were also made. The stratagem succeeded, Clinton sent no assistance to Cornwallis until it was too late, keeping his army where it was for the defense of New York. The surrender of Cornwallis practically ended the revolution, although the treaty of peace was not signed until nearly two years later.

According to some historians General Washington intended to attack Clinton, when the orders were sent out, but afterwards changed his tactics and advanced upon Cornwallis. It has been remarked as curious, or at least a little singular, that the first battle of the revolution should have taken place in Massachusetts at Lexington, April 19, 1775, and the last in Virginia, at Yorktown, October 19, 1781, the two states most distinguished for their opposition to the English government.

After Washington felt that he had acted the lie long enough and that he had Clinton guessing, he made plans to carry out one of the most daring and brilliant feats in all military history. He moved his main army southward from Dodds Ferry, as though to make a general assault in New York. Clinton prepared for the attack, but it was not until Washington and his army was well advanced towards the assistance of the colonial forces in the south that he learned how he had been fooled. He was too far out of reach for the British to overtake him. So much secrecy had been maintained that even the American soldiers had no idea where they were going.

The arrival of Washington's army in Virginia brought to the American force there sufficient strength to prevent Cornwallis from escaping. Cornwallis sent a frantic appeal to Clinton for assistance, and the latter equipped a fleet of warships and hurried them down the coast. But his fleet was detained by contrary winds. In the meantime Cornwallis hit on a daring plan for escape with the bulk of his force in ships by night, slipping through the line of watchful French warships, but a violent storm arose and the vessels were compelled to relinquish the idea. Thus twice the winds of heaven assisted in the fight in liberty's behalf.

Caught starving and short of ammunition, with no relief in sight, Cornwallis was finally compelled to surrender, on October 19, and this was the greatest and the final triumph of the war. It broke the backbone of England's American power. On hearing the news, the British prime minister cried aloud:

"It is all over! Oh, it is all over!"

Clinton's relieving fleet, by the way, had already reached the Chesapeake when its admiral learned of Cornwallis' fate, and turned sorrowfully back. Thackeray, the novelist, commenting on the siege of Yorktown and other revolutionary events, wrote: "We had the best cards and we lost the game! From the beginning to the end we were forever arriving too late!"

All is fair in love and war is the old saying, and it is particularly true of war, for in this deception of Washington, the English General Clinton was fooled by the Americans, and it was probably the lie he told and acted that won for the colonies their independence.

New News of Yesterday

How the Cavalrymen Kept Their Horses.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Just as twilight was deepening one evening in the month of June, 1865, a spectacle unprecedented and unmatched at the close of the Civil war was vaguely, and as in a fog or mist, outlined to the people of New Haven, Conn. The First Connecticut cavalry was returning from nearly four years' service in the Civil war. The regiment had been brought by steamboat from New York, and it arrived at New Haven a little after 8 o'clock. The streets were thronged so that it was almost impossible for anyone to get through the crowds. A dense mass of people collected around the New Haven green. A queer stillness prevailed, especially noticeable because it was maintained by so great a number of people.

At last, in the distance, a faint clattering sound was heard and the noise increased until gradually out of the twilight the mounted hoofs appeared. The sound of the bugle was heard, but the twilight obscured almost each individual horse and rider, so that it seemed like a ghostly procession.

E. J. Edwards.

The regiment was dismounted at the rear of the Connecticut statehouse and the soldiers, with the exception of those who were detained to look after the horses, were treated to a collation made up for the most part of delicacies and seasonable food such as they had not tasted since they went to the war.

After the collation the men, almost in silence, mounted their horses and disappeared in the darkness to the distant field on which they were to camp. In this way a regiment of cavalry, which had seen service all over the south, returned almost in silence and then melted away. For in the course of a few days the regiment was mustered out, and within another week or two the soldiers, with their horses, were back upon the old homesteads taking up their vocation as if nothing had happened.

I had heard that the First Connecticut cavalry was the only cavalry regiment which was permitted to bring its horses home, and to ride back to the place whence, four years earlier, it had departed for the war. The colonel of this regiment was Brayton Ives, who was afterwards president of the New York stock exchange. Chancing in the company of General Ives several years ago, I asked him if it were true that the First Connecticut cavalry was the only cavalry regiment which was permitted to bring their horses home and to ride the animals to the mustering-out place.

"Yes, that was true," General Ives said. "I made special inquiry and I found that my regiment was the only one to whom this privilege was granted."

"How did that happen?" I asked.

"Well, it was simple enough," General Ives replied. "It occurred to me just before we left Washington for home that there could be no good reason why my men should not be permitted to bring their horses home with them.

"I went to see Quartermaster-General Meigs, and I asked him if my men could not take their horses home. He looked at me inquiringly, so I explained to him my reason.

"I said to him that many of my men had become greatly attached to their horses. The horses were almost as affectionate in their manner toward the men as an intelligent dog would have been. They knew their masters' voices. They would follow the soldiers around, obeying implicitly not merely a stern word of command, but as little a thing as a gentle tone of voice.

"I said, furthermore, that I had no doubt that the men in almost every instance would be glad to pay the government any reasonabl price for the horses. When they were mustered out they could take their horses home with them.

"General Meigs seemed to be very favorably impressed, even somewhat touched, by my appeal. He gave the necessary order, and it was for this reason that my men brought their horses home."

With eager interest the little boy was watching every move of the driver, spinning the car over beautiful country roads. A man sat on the rear seat. The little boy was about his most precious possession. The automobile was going a terrific pace. The faster it went, the ecstacy of the boy increased. But into the man's mind crept a subtle fear, not for himself, but for the boy. Suppose something went wrong. "You need not be afraid; Jim knows his business." This was the confidence expressed by the lady who had sent the man and his boy, Bob, out riding. Just then the chauffeur turned a bit in his seat. The man was impressed by the face. Somewhere, many years ago, he had seen it before.

An old mother came to Logan, of the Associated Charities. Bent with years of poverty, she was now more bent with the weight of sorrow. Jim, her seventeen-year-old son, was in jail. They were intent on putting the boy "behind the bars." He had stolen some stuff from the corner grocery and maliciously broke out the window panes. She admitted that Jim was a mean lad, the leader of a mean gang. "No, I don't mean to shield him in his meanness. Jim ain't what I call a good boy. But wouldn't you want to save him? He is the only boy I've got." Finally the grocer was mollified. The case was nol pros'd on the agreement of Jim and his mother to move from the neighborhood.

Logan took the young fellow and put him in the varnishing department of Woodward Lumber company, where he became a first-rate painter. That was seven years ago. From that day to the day of the ride, he had not seen Jim again. Jim married four years ago. His home is a happy one. He is an asset to the community.

The next legislature will be called on to enact a law making it possible for judges to do what was done in this case. The legislature will be called on to do this in recognition of the fact that a good many of the acts we now term criminal, and treat as such, are the result of misdirected energy, which, if set aright, would redeem the offender and save the state from the stain of making criminals of thoughtless boys.

It must not be thought that probation means turning the offender aloose. Probation, correctly administered, is a stern regimen of discipline making for self-mastery and self-control.

A Modern Diogenes.

(From The Christian Herald.)

A wealthy man who died in Brussels recently left much of his large fortune to a girl who was unacquainted with him. He was very eccentric, and, like Diogenes, he set out to find an honest man. His tub was an omnibus and his lantern a small coin. In the omnibus he took his seat near the conductor and always showed himself very obliging, passing up the money of passengers and returning the change, but to the latter he always managed to add a franc or half-franc. Then he would watch those to whom it came. They would count it carefully, notice the extra coin, and invariably slip it into their pockets. But at last a young woman passed hers back, with "Conductor, you have given me half a franc too much." The man followed her to her home, learned what he could about her, and made his will in her favor, though he never told her that the half franc returned would bring her a million.

SAYS SOUTHERN PACIFIC MUST GIVE UP CENTRAL

Attorney General McReynolds Finally Decides That the Two Systems Must Be Divorced.

Washington, May 28.—Attorney General McReynolds has decided to contend that the Southern Pacific must give up the Central Pacific in the pending dissolution of the Union Pacific merger, and will bring suit under the Sherman law to accomplish that end if the dissolution plans fail to include it.

It became definitely known today that the attorney general had finally decided that the Central Pacific must be divorced from the Southern. Disposition of the Central Pacific is understood to be the cause of the hitch in the efforts of the Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific to reach an agreement.

The plan which the Union Pacific will shortly present to the attorney general contemplates, it is believed here, only the disposition of its $126,000,000 of Southern Pacific stock held by the Union Pacific and will leave the question of the status of the Central Pacific to separate litigation to be begun by the government. The supreme court ordered the sale of Union Pacific holdings of Southern Pacific stock and left open to negotiation or future litigation the disposition of the Central Pacific.

The position of Mr. McReynolds regarding the Central Pacific coincides with that of former Attorney General Wickersham, who threatened an anti-trust suit unless the Southern Pacific disposed of its subsidiary.

HALF-DOZEN WIVES MOURN DEATH OF MUCH-WEDDED MAN

Chicago, May 28.—At least two widows and a fiancee are mourning the death of Homer E. Morrison, and the police are working on clews which may lead them to three other women who can claim the man as their late husband.

Morrison died last Thursday of what may have been poisoning.

Two of his wives have complained that he took $17,000 of their money, and a widow, who says he promised to marry her, admits she gave him $1,600.

Mrs. Homer E. Morrison says she married Morrison three years ago. Mrs. W. Thompson says she married the same man under the name of Thompson seven years ago; Mrs. Pearl McDivitt asserts Morrison promised to marry her next month.

These three women lived on the same car line without knowing the existence of each other. Sometimes Morrison visited all three the same day.

Under the name of Thompson the man posed as a claim adjuster, but for seven years kept Mrs. Thompson in the dark regarding his place of business. To Mrs. Morrison he was a real estate dealer, but she never knew where his office was. By day he was manager of a rooming house on Chicago avenue, where he never was seen at night.

From what Mrs. Thompson has said, the police suspect that Morrison took poison, and they are gathering evidence to present to the coroner.

HE ASKS INDEPENDENCE FOR THE PHILIPPINES

Washington, May 28.—Representative Francisco Burton Harrison today appealed to President Wilson to grant immediate independence to the Philippine islands. He declared that not only were the Philippines an easy point of attack for an enemy of the United States, but that the people were capable of self-government and deserved promised independence.

QUESTIONS AUTHORITY OF PUJO COMMITTEE

New York, May 28.—The authority of the Pujo committee that searched for a "money trust," to compel witnesses to answer, will be questioned before the United States supreme court, George Garz Henry, New York banker, indicted in Washington for contempt after his refusal to answer questions asked by the committee, gave notice today that he would appeal to the highest court from the recent decision of Federal District Judge Mayer ordering him to stand trial on the indictment. Judge Meyer issued a stay to permit the banker to carry up his appeal. Henry furnished $2,000 bail.

Students Fight Flames.

Ann Arbor, May 28.—Three thousand students of the University of Michigan turned out to fight a fire today that attacked university hall, the oldest building on the campus. They kept the flames to the hall's south wing.

Deferred Payments Permit Your Buying A Diamond Without Feeling the Outlay

Diamonds can be bought here by paying only one-fifth cash—the balance, plus 6 per cent simple interest, to be paid in ten equal monthly payments.

The 6 per cent simple interest is the difference between cash and the long-time accommodation. It is just enough to pay for the additional booking involved. It would certainly not be fair to the cash customer to sell on long time without this difference.

Diamonds will unquestionably be advanced 20 per cent within the next few months. The advance in price by the syndicate and the new tariff bill makes the advance certain.

Selections sent anywhere for inspection.

Call or write for booklet, "Facts About Diamonds," and large general catalogue. They quote net prices and give full particulars about our attractive plans.

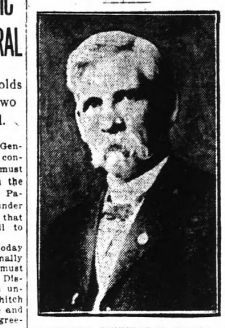
AGAIN HEADS VETERANS.



GENERAL BENNETT H. YOUNG, He-elected commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans on Wednesday.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY STATE ODD FELLOWS

Dr. L. B. Clarke, of Atlanta, Elected to Short Term as Grand Representative.

Savannah, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Dr. L. B. Clarke, of Atlanta, was today elected to the short term as grand representative of the grand lodge of Odd Fellows. Although there was a contest when the election was first called, all opposing candidates retired in favor of the Atlanta man. Retiring Grand Master W. S. Coleman, of Cedartown, was elected as long-term representative.

Only two candidates then appeared for the short term, Dr. Clarke and Colonel John W. Bennett, of Waycross.

The Waycross delegate then exemplified the spirit of the order by announcing that he would not oppose his friend and brother.

He said when he was ill in Atlanta in a hospital Dr. Clarke was his constant attendant. He at the first lodge to honor Dr. Clarke as they had honored him.

He delivered a very pretty brotherly love speech, and was swarmly applauded. Macon was elected as the next meeting place of the grand lodge.

The grand lodge elected the following officers:

Grand master, Thomas M. Hoynes, Savannah; deputy grand master, W. M. Sloan, Gainesville; grand warden, Frank Harwell; grand secretary, T. H. Robertson, Gainesville; grand treasurer, C. A. Vonderleith, Athens.

EDUCATION DELEGATES TO THE HAGUE NAMED

Washington, May 28.—Secretary Lane today recommended to Secretary Bryan the appointment of American delegates to the international conference on education at The Hague next September.

Congress will make no appropriation to pay expenses of the delegates, but the following named, selected by the secretary, have expressed their willingness to accept appointment upon these conditions.

Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Leland-Stanford university, California; Dr. Charles H. Judd, director school of education, University of Chicago; Charles N. Kendall, state commissioner of education, Trenton, N. J.; Randall J. Condon, superintendent of education, Cincinnati, Ohio; Jaivd Jayne Hill, former ambassador to Germany; Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, secretary of the American School of Peace league, and special collaborator in the United States bureau of education, and Philander P. Claxton, comissioner of education of the United States.

TOBACCO TRUST "DEATH" STUDIED BY M'REYNOLDS

Washington, May 28.—Attorney General McReynolds still is studying whether the decrees dissolving the "tobacco trust" is being complied with and whether all semblance of a "tobacco trust" has disappeared.

Since the entry of the decree the department of justice made a few local investigations in the south where complaints alleged that the decree was being violated. The results have not been definite.

The attorney general was the government's attorney in the original tobacco case. He disagreed with former Attorney General Wickersham as to the terms of the decree dissolving the trust, especially that feature by which the stock was distributed pro rata among the stockholders.

STILWELL SENTENCED TO 4 YEARS IN PRISON

New York, May 28.—Former State Senator Stephen K. Stilwell, convicted of bribery by a jury last week, after he had been exonerated by the New York state senate, was sentenced today to serve not less than four years nor more than eight in Sing Sing prison.

Supreme Court Justice Seabury granted a stay of execution, so Stilwell's lawyers might apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt.

Stilwell, state senator from the Bronx, was convicted of attempting to obtain $3,500 from George H. Kendall, president of the New York Bank Note company for favorable consideration by the senate and assembly codes committees of a bill to make illegal discrimination against bank note companies by stock exchanges. Kendall refused to pay. Governor Sulzer, called on Stilwell to resign. Stilwell declined. The senate investigated the charges and exonerated Stilwell by a vote of 28 to 21. Thereafter the case was placed in the hands of District Attorney Whitman.

Stilwell is 47 years of age, and had been long in politics.

WAR BETWEEN BULGARIA AND SERVIA IMMINENT

Military Circles in Sofia Expect Almost Immediate Outbreak of Hostilities.

Sofia, Bulgaria, May 28.—Military circles of the Bulgarian capital expect an almost immediate outbreak of hostilities between Bulgaria and Servia.

Vienna, May 28.—Bulgaria has addressed note to the powers offering to submit to their decision the question of the future of Saloniki, according to the Reichspost.

Saloniki, May 28.—Severe tension continues between the Greek and Bulgarian armies facing each other north of Saloniki. Shots were exchanged yesterday and today. The Greeks accuse the Bulgarians as aggressors.

In spite of the declaration made at Sofia that the Bulgarian troops have been ordered to observe a moderate attitude and to avoid conflicts with the Greeks, the Bulgarian commanders apparently are preparing to attack Eleftheria, with a view to gaining complete occupation of the dominant position of Mt. Panghaion. They have already placed guns on the hill crests southeast of Prava, commanding Eleftheria. The Bulgarian troops have also occupied the heights commanding Bujuktu, south of Lake Doiran, and the town of the same name occupied by the Greeks.

The Greek generals believe the Bulgarians are systematically creating incidents and endeavoring to drive the Greeks toward the sea and seize the positions vacated by them.

PATENT METAL SOLDIER; WHERE ARE HEROES?

Copenhagen, May 28.—The dream of a Danish engineer named Aesen, of seeing the next war waged by automatons in place of soldiers, has developed into the patenting of an invention which, it is said, would revolutionize defensive tactics. Aesen's contrivance is a cylinder which may be buried in the ground for years in the same fashion as submarine mines are placed in harbors, doing no damage until they are fired. The cylinder is operated by electricity from a station four or five miles distant. When a button is pressed, the cylinder jumps two feet from the ground and fires 400 shots horizontally, the shots being effective at a range of 2,000 yards.

Aesen asserts that crops might be grown over the automatons in time of peace, and thus they would be well hidden, so that the enemy would not know their position until they started firing.

DEATH HAS CLAIMED MISS MARY E. POE

Miss Mary Elizabeth Poe, of Gogsans, Ga., died Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of her sister, Mrs. Walter Reynolds, 128 East Pine street. Miss Poe, who came up a few days ago to visit her sister, was stricken Monday night with the illness that caused her death. She was the daughter of the late Judge John C. Poe, whose father was one of the pioneers of Monroe county. She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Walter Reynolds, of Atlanta; Miss Alice Poe, of Gogsans, and Mrs. John Maury, of Johnsonville, and by two brothers, John W. Poe, of Macon, and James E. Poe, of Gogsans. The interment will be Friday in the Poe family cemetery near Gogsans.

MEMPHIS POSTMASTER IS UNDER INDICTMENT

Lee W. Dutro Charged by Federal Grand Jury With Soliciting Campaign Funds in 1910.

Memphis, Tenn., May 28.—Lee W. Dutro, postmaster at Memphis for the past twelve years, today was indicted by the federal grand jury on the charge of soliciting campaign funds in 1910. It is stated similar charges against Newell Sanders, of Chattanooga, former United States senator, and Henry C. True, leader of republicans in West Tennessee, were ignored.

The specific charge against Postmaster Dutro is that he violated postal code No. 13, when he obtained a $10 contribution from W. F. Roberts, clerk in the postoffice on October 1, 1910.

The charges against Postmaster Dutro were first made last year, but at that time no action was taken by the grand jury. Similar charges also were made against government officials at Nashville and Knoxville, but the men indicted were acquitted when placed on trial.

The fight between factions of the republican party in this state is said to be at the bottom of the charges.

Unnoticed by Spectators and Officers, Negro Prisoner Walks Out of Courtroom

Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Unnoticed by three bailiffs, the sheriff and spectators, Richard Thorne, a negro who had pleaded guilty in the superior court before Judge W. F. George, for stealing a pistol, deliberately walked out of the courtroom and made good his escape, his absence not being noted until an hour later.

Judge George had postponed sentencing him in order to hear the pleas of other prisoners.

Thorne was arrested in Berrien county yesterday.

BAD DAIRY CONDITIONS EXISTING AT AMERICUS

Americus, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Americus marketmen and dairymen have just been officially investigated by representatives of the state veterinary and pure food departments, and the result has created considerable comment locally.

Drs. P. H. Bahnsen, S. E. Hutchens and P. A. Methvin, with Chairman Chambliss, of the American board of health, inspected at butcher pens, meat markets and dairies, with the result that there is going to be an immediate and wonderful improvement in many of these places, which failed to measure to requirements.

Citizens were surprised to learn of conditions existing and are pleased as the result of the thorough inspection.

Young Women From Four States Get Diplomas at Agnes Scott

Sixteen young women from four states were graduated from Agnes Scott college at the closing commencement exercises in the college auditorium Wednesday morning. Besides the degrees several scholarships and prizes were awarded.

Many of the girls' parents and relatives and a large number of their friends were at the exercises to see them graduate. The young women made a pretty array as they received their diplomas.

The following received their diplomas:

FARMER CONFERENCE TO BE CONDUCTED AT BERRY SCHOOL

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Booklets have been issued by the Berry school announcing the first summer school and farmers' conference ever held by the famous institution beginning July 2 and continuing until August 15. The special purpose of the summer school is to beach those who cannot attend the regular session and at the same time give opportunity for students to do extra work.

The school will place its splendid equipment and corps of instructions at the service of the male teachers of rural, public and Sunday schools of northwest Georgia, as well as farmers, young and old.

Six weeks' courses for rural school teachers will be given in agriculture, Bible, civil government, geography, history, mathematics, methods of teaching and science of rural schools.

Two series of three weeks' courses for Sunday school teachers will be given, the first series from July 2 to July 23, the second from July 24 to August 15. These include Bible outlines and Sunday school methods for personal work.

A six weeks and a two weeks' course are offered farmers, the latter for those who cannot spare time for the former. General agriculture, animal husbandry, farm mechanics and dairying will be taught. A three days' conference will be held July 31 to August 2, in co-operation with the Farmers and Merchants' Co-Operative association. Noted agriculturists and demonstrators of this and other states will be joined by experts from the United States department of agriculture and practical farmers, gardeneres, dairymen, scientists and business men, all of whom will lecture.

The plans for the Berry school during the coming summer are altogether as unique and promise to materialize as usefully as the famous institution itself.

R. L. C. Convention.

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—About fifty rural mail carriers of the seventh congressional district will hold their first annual convention here Friday. Decoration day, which is observed by the postal authorities as a holiday. A program of entertainment is being mapped out by the local carriers who will be hosts to their visiting brothers.

Rome Commencement.

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Ten boys and girls graduated this morning from the Rome high school, the exercises being held for the first time in the auditorium of the school building, formerly Shorter college. This is the first time in the history of the Rome high school that the commencement exercises have not been held in the opera house.

Seaborn Wright to Speak.

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Seaborn Wright, the prohibition leader of Georgia, has accepted an invitation to speak at a mass meeting Sunday in Macon to discuss law enforcement. He will probably pay special attention to the open violation of the prohibition law there, and as he never minces words, a sensation is expected.

GERMAN BUSINESS MEN TO MEET IN SAVANNAH

Charleston, S. C., May 28.—The eighth annual business session of the South Atlantic Business league of German societies was held here today. Savannah was chosen as the meeting place next year. Officers were elected as follows:

F. H. Roellering, of Savannah, president; G. Mau, of Atlanta, first vice president; G. Steche, of Tampa, second vice president; Oscar Seewald, of Jacksonville, third vice president; H. E. Knobeloch, of Charleston, fourth vice president; William Niesl, of Brunswick, fifth vice president; Louis Richebe, of Macon, sixth vice president, a new office; Colonel H. E. Dreeson, of Savannah, treasurer; Paul Wierse, of Charleston, secretary; John D. Cappelmann, of Charleston, solicitor.

The president and first four vice presidents were re-elected.

JACK JOHNSON AGAIN IN MESHES OF LAW

Chicago, May 22.—Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight champion, who recently was found guilty of violating the Mann white slave law, was arrested again today, this time on the charge of cutting out his muffler while riding in his automobile on North Clark street.

"Well, that's the limit," exclaimed Johnson, after his arrest, "they seem to want to get me all the time. It's persecution, that's all."

Johnson was released on his own recognizance. He will be arraigned tomorrow.

JAP POLITICIANS USE CALIFORNIA PROBLEM

Tokio, May 28.—The executive committee of ex-Premier Count Kausura's new party today issued a statement declarin gthat the present cabinet could not be relied upon to settle the California alien-land ownership question, and adding that the party had decided to adopt its own propaganda with regard to the dispute.

There are indications that the opposition parties in Japan are uniting the California problem to discredit the Yamamoto ministry.

The cabinet, however, is generally conceded to be in a strong position with the public.

BAR ASSOCIATION.
Warm Springs. On May 29, 30 and 31, A., B. & A. will operate through service from Atlanta, leaving at 8:00 a. m., arriving Springs 11:20 a. m. The Best Route.

MORSE ELECTED HEAD OF STEAMSHIP COMPANY

New York, May 28.—Charles W. Morse was elected today president of the Hudson Navigation company, owners of a line of steamers operating on the Hudson river. Morse was head of the company in 1909, but was deposed a year later. John W. McKinnon, who succeeded him, sold his interest in the line to a syndicate of New Yorkers, who placed it in Morse's hands, thus giving him control.

Nearly Every "Worshiper" at Negro Revival Took Part in a Free-for-All Fight

Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—When Sheriff John Ward, of Crisp county, was notified last night that a fight had occurred at a negro church several miles in the county, where a protracted meeting was being held, and that several had been badly injured, he went to the scene of the difficulty in an automobile.

He found that the fight had been a free-for-all, and that nearly every negro man attending the meeting had taken part. Seven were placed under arrest and two of them were brought in on the automobile and lodged in the county jail, while five others, who were so badly injured by knife wounds that they could not escape, were hauled to the city on a two-horse wagon.

Brilliant Exercises Mark the Commencement at Brenau

Gainesville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Seldom has Brenau college had a more brilliant commencement than that which marked the closing of this scholastic year. Two notable addresses, one by Bishop Warren A. Candler, of Atlanta, and the other by Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, who delivered the address to the graduating class, contributed a serious and intensely interesting note to the exercises, while the festivities incident to commencement made the occasion one of much pleasure and enjoyment.

Commencement began with the presentation of the annual play by the Seniors of the oratory school. On Saturday evening the alumnae banquet was given, the presence of the class of 1903, which held its decennial reunion this year, and of the Brenau Colony of Atlanta, lending unusual interest to the occasion.

On Sunday morning Bishop Warren A Candler preached the baccalaureate sermon, his serious thought being lightened by humorous and sarcastic phrases in such manner that the audience was first touched to earnestness, and even tears, and then to delighted laughter.

Sunday afternoon a splendid sacred concert was given and on Monday evening the grand concert proved entertaining.

The class day exercises on Monday afternoon were very picturesque.

The annual ivy processional, in which the girls in dainty graduation gowns and cap and robe marched through the shaded campus walks, was unusually beautiful this year, and the program was well rendered.

Miss Frances Gay, who graduated in oratory, delivered the salutatory, the address being one of sincerity and charm. The class will, given by Miss Lucile Ferguson, proved most interesting, and especially was it diverting to the young collegians. Miss Wood responded for the Juniors. Miss Estelle Nottingham was the valedictorian.

Tuesday morning occurred the graduating exercises. Chancellor David C. Barrow, of the University of Georgia, gave the address, his talk being an earnest and intelligent discussion of the ideals which should govern the young women after graduation.

Throughout commencement, music of a high notably high class contributed to the pleasure of the programs.

Rawling-Wilcox.

The marriage of Miss Katherine Rawling and Mr. Philip Wakeman Wilcox was a beautiful event of last night, solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Rawling, in Druid Hills.

Bishop Leete, of the Methodist Episcopal church, preformed the ceremony which was witnessed by a small company, and the only attendant was Mr. Sidney Wilcox, of New York, who was his brother's best man.

The ceremony took place in the library, the bridal party grouped before a wall of foliage. Tall palms were banked to the ceiling and bursts of half-open white roses and of valley lilies were relieved against the green In the adjoining reception rooms, where the wedding company was assembled, palms were massed effectively, and the mantels were banked with variegated foliage, through which shown small electric lights. Vases of white roses continued the prevailing effect of green and white.

An orchestra stationed in the hall behind a screen of palms played the wedding music, and the bride entered the library with her father.

A pretty brunette, with a dignity and a style which distinguished her, he was charming in her wedding gown of white brocade, simply fashioned and trimmed with old point lace. The beautiful veil was of lace and her bouquet was of bride roses showered with lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Rawling was lovely in gray charmeuse draped with pale pink chiffon and trimmed with old lace. Mrs. Sidney S. Wilcox, of New York, the groom's mother, wore a white Brussels lace gown with a finish in lavender. Mrs. Fulford, of Canada, his aunt, wore black chiffon cloth. Mrs. J. T. Wheeler, of New York, the bride's aunt, wore a black lace gown.

A buffet supper was served from the dining room, and there elaborate decoration was in pink. The table centerpiece was a basket of pink roses, the handle twined with roses and tulle the silver candlesticks had pink shades and pretty details of color was pink. The mantel was banked with ferns and roses were massed on mantel and buffet. Punch was served in the sun parlor, which was a bower of green. Upstairs a profusion of sweet peas decorated all the rooms.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox went east for a short trip, the bride caught as she was leaving the house, by a fragrant shower of rose petals. On their return they will occupy the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rawling, who leave on June 12 for an extended stay abroad. Later they will build on the lot adjoining, which was a wedding present.

Both have made a cordial acquaintance in Atlanta during their brief residence here. The bride was educated in New York city, her former home, and she has many friends in this country and abroad to wish her happiness. Mr. Wilcox is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Wilcox, of New York, and he is secretary-treasurer of the Cleveland-Manning Piano company.

Morning Bridge.

An enjoyable morning bridge party was that given yesterday by Mrs. E. H. Bussey, at her home, in Inman Park.

Daisies and ferns were an effective decoration.

Mrs. Bussey's guests were: Misses Josephine Stoney, Eloise Stewart, Frances Connally, Nellie Kiser Stewart, Mrs. R. N. H. Bardwell, Mrs. L. S. Crane, Mrs. C. C. McGehee, Jr., Mrs. E. H. Ginn, Mrs. T. K. Starr, Mrs. D. S. Moore, Mrs. H. E. W. Palmer and Mrs. W. C. Coles.

Music of Childhood.

A delightful musical entertainment will be given at the parish house of the Church of the Incarnation in West End on the evening of June 3. Some of the best singers in the city, including Mrs. John L. Meeks, soprano; Mrs. Arthur Crevistion, contralto; Mr. Howard Davis, tenor, and Mr. John Mullin, basso, will sing the "Nonsense Rhymes from Alice in Wonderland," set to music by Liza Lehmann, with other songs which will bring back memories of childhood.

Rev. John D. Wing has consented to give a reading of "The Happy Prince," by Oscar Wilde, which also has a musical accompaniment, written by Lehmann. Mr. Charles A. Sheldon, Jr., will be the accompanist for the evening.

The musical is given under the auspices of the Epiphany Guild of Inman Park and St. Mary's Guild of the Church of Incarnation.

To Mrs. Keenan.

A delightful expression of outdoor hospitality was the bridge given yesterday by Mrs. J. T. Daniel in compliment to Mrs. Walter Keenan, of Columbia, S. C., in whose honor a number of pretty parties are planned.

The game was played at the East Lake club house on the porch overlooking the lake, and refreshments were served there. The bridge prizes were silk stockings, embroidered handkerchiefs and a bridge set.

May Festival.

Four years ago Mrs. Brevard Montgomery revived, in Atlanta, the old custom of a Maypole dance and crowning the queen of the May. Since that time the Uncle Remus Memorial association has made it an annual event at the Uncle Remus home. No pains are spared to make it the most beautiful pageant in Atlanta. Hundreds of children fancifully dressed, dancing and singing to herald the coming of the beautiful queen with her maid of honor, knights and ladies in waiting. The throne is decked with flowers and pretty little flower girls scatter flowers along the way, making a beautiful picture. A couple of hundred children take part in the maypole dancing and figures, keeping time to the music of the orchestra.

Friday afternoon at 5 at Uncle Remus home. Admission, 10 cents.

To Miss Hall.

Mrs. Louis C. Moeckel was hostess at a pretty card party yesterday afternoon when twelve young ladies were assembled to meet Miss Muriel Hall.

A basket of sweet peas decorated the daintily appointed tea table, and sweet peas were an effective decoration in all the rooms.

The bridge prizes were silk stockings and embroidered towels.

To Miss Boyd.

Miss Emily Winship will entertain at bridge Tuesday afternoon in compliment to Miss Carolyn King's guest, Miss Boyd, of Nashville.

Mrs. Watson Entertains.

Mrs. J. H. Watson entertained at a pretty bridge party yesterday afternoon at her home in North Jackson street for Miss Irene Hartzog, a bride-elect. Pink roses and sweet peas artistically arranged decorated the house. The first prize was a silver lemon stand, and the consolation, a box of correspondence cards. The guest of honor was given silk stockings. Mrs. Watson wore a gown of blue voile over blue charmeuse satin. The guests included Miss Hartzog, Mrs. J. J. Murphey, Mrs. C. N. Bennett, Mrs. Pinckney Cherry, Mrs. Porter Bearden, Mrs. Green, Mrs. J. H. Gresham, Mrs. R. A. Williams, Mrs. R. D. Leon, Mrs. Frank Foster, Mrs. Floyd Sims, Miss Essie Westbrook, Miss Lucile McGlauflin, Mrs. Bagwell and Mrs. A. W. Faulkenberg.

Evening Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis D. Sharpe will entertain a small party at bridge tonight at their attractive home on East Fenth street, in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Seydel of New York. Dr. and Mrs. G. K. Varden and Miss Ione Watson of Anniston.

Afternoon Reception.

Mrs. Guy Webb will give a reception next Wednesday afternoon at her home in Decatur in compliment to Miss Marie Wright and Mrs. Paul Weeks.

Club Entertained.

Mrs. E. J. Coleman entertained her bridge club Tuesday afternoon at her home on West Peachtree Place. The house was attractively decorated with quantities of daisies. The prizes were won by Mrs. Herndon and Mrs. Adamson, and were a piece of white and gold china and a lace table cover. Mrs. Coleman wore a gown of white ratine. Those present were Mrs. Hopkinson, Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs Carroll, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Wilburn, Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. Laurens, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Salmon, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. Adamson and Mrs. Carmin.

Matinee Party.

Mrs. Heard Dent gave a matinee party Monday at the Atlanta for Miss Emma Gray, of Savannah.

To Miss Fewell.

Miss Nana Tucker has invited twenty guests to meet Miss Olive Fewell Saturday afternoon.

Informal Dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sisson gave a pretty dinner last night in compliment to Mr. and Mrs. Gustavus Sisson, who have recently returned from their wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Smith completed the party.

The table decoration was an artistic arrangement of spring flowers.

Entertainment Postponed.

The entertainment which was to have been given at Park Street school last night and tonight has been postponed until June 2 and 3.

For Miss Bobb.

Mrs. W. M. Reid gave an informal tea yesterday afternoon at her home in College Park for Miss Mildred Bobb, of New Orleans, who is the guest of Miss Ruth Reid. Pink and white roses and sweet peas decorated the house and the centerpiece of the tea table in the dining room was a pretty arrangement of pink and white roses, and all of the details of the table were pink and white. Invited to meet Miss Bobb were ten guests, members of a club at Washington seminary.

For Mrs. Estes.

Mrs. Morris Ewing entertained informally at bridge yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Grady Estes, a recent bride. The guests included the members of Mrs. Ewing's bridge club.

"Mother Goose" Pageant.

Next Saturday beautiful Druid Hills will be visited by thousands of people who have never been there before. Ample arrangements will be made by the street cars to handle the crowds, and will be announced tomorrow.

A baby show will be held on the lawn of Dr. Charles Campbell from 3 to 4. Many handsome prizes will be awarded to children from 3 months to 4 years. Twins will receive special attention, and the prizes will be presented by Miss Gladys Hanson.

At 4 o'clock the pageant having formed on the lawn of Mrs. S. C. Dobbs will begin the grand march, preceded by the band and led by "Mother Goose." Three hundred chairs will be placed on the lawn of Mrs. Clyde King to accommodate those not wishing to stand.

After the parade tableaux will be formed with "Mother Goose" and her family in the more important events. Then some exquisite fancy [illegible] be given by pupils of Miss [illegible] school, and [illegible] will be [illegible] the dance of [illegible] fairies and [illegible] of the queen. After this there will be general dancing, which will continue into the early evening.

Ice cream cones and candy and other things dear to the heart of childhood will be on hand, as well as a fat and mysterious grab bag.

A cake sale will be one of the features. Many elegant home-made cakes have been donated, and those arranging for Sunday dinner can be supplied.

To Bride-Elect.

Among the parties planned in honor of Miss Martha Francis will be a bridge at which Mrs. Wm. Schroder will be hostess, and Mrs. Bertram Norris will entertain.

To Miss Abernathy.

Mrs. M. W. Hardwick gave a matinee party yesterday at the Atlanta, in compliment to Miss Grace Abernathy a bride-elect.

Organ Recital at St. Mark.

Miss Eda Bartholomew, the organist of St. Mark's church, assisted by Mr. Edward A. Werner, baritone, and Mr. Oscar Pappenheimer, cellist, will give a delightful recital at St. Mark's, corner of Peachtree and Fifth streets Friday evening, May 30, at 8 o'clock. The public is cordially invited; no admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be taken during the evening, the proceeds to be used in the social service work that is being done by the ladies of the church.

For Miss Bloodworth.

Miss Louise Bloodworth, of Forsyth, the guest of Miss Martan Dean, will be entertained at a heart-dice party this afternoon by Miss Marie Stoddard. Miss Hallie Crawford will give an up-jinks party Friday, and Saturday Miss Emily West will entertain at heart-dice. Miss Helen Tucker will give a matinee party Saturday afternoon for Miss Bloodworth.

Children to Meet.

All children who have been asked to take part in the tableaux, "The Old Woman in the Shoe" in the Mother Goose pageant, are requested to meet Mrs. Henry DeGive on Mrs. Dobbs' lawn, at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Bridge Party for Visitors.

Miss Emma Gray, of Savannah, who is visiting Mrs. Howard Arnold, was the guest of honor at a delightful bridge party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. J. M. Beasley and Mrs. J. H. Arnold, at the home of Mrs. Beasley, on Gordon street.

The house was beautifully decorated with masses of pink roses and ferns. The prize, silk stockings, for top score, was won by Mrs. St. Elmo Massengale, and the consolation, a fern dish, was won by Mrs. Jesse Maurry.

The tea table in the dining room had for a centerpiece a plateau of pink roses and all decorative details of the pretty table were pink.

There were twenty-eight guests invited to meet Miss Gray.

TRYING TO CONNECT WOOD WITH ATTEAUX

Great Crowd Listens to Evidence in Alleged Dynamite Planting Conspiracy.

Boston, May 28.—Another big crowd listened today to evidence introduced by District Attorney Pelletier in support of the charge that William Wood, president of the American Woolen company, and Frederick E. Atteaux, a dye manufacturer, conspired with others to "plant" dynamite at Lawrence to cast suspicion upon striking textile operatives.

One of the many witnesses called in an attempt to fill in the gaps in the government's case and connect more closely the principals with the alleged plot was Max Mitchell, a banker of Boston, whose direct examination was apparently intended to show intimacy between Wood and Atteaux.

Several times during the trial the prosecutor had questioned witnesses concerning the whereabouts of Charles A. Hardy, an official of the American Woolen company, and Orville Reddig, formerly employed by Wood as a chauffeur, but without receiving any information. Today three police officers testified that they had been unable to serve a summons on Hardy requiring his attendance at the trial, and Lawrence police inspector testified similarly regarding his efforts to locate Reddig.

The danger of the "plant" was illustrated in the testimony of Joseph Assaf, a Syrian painter of Lawrence, in whose home some of the explosive was placed. Assaf said that when he opened the package he thought the sticks might be some new form of paint. He tried to burn a stick and then smelled of the scorched piece. Later on he showed the stick to a person who told him it was dynamite. He intended taking it to the police station and left it for safe-keeping in his bedroom, where it was later found by the police who arrested him.

FOREIGN PROTEST TO CHANGE TARIFF

Provision in Bill Granting Discount on Imports in American Vessels Probably Will Be Eliminated.

Washington, May 28.—Congress in all probability will yield to the protests of foreign nations against the provisions in the Underwood tariff bill granting a 5 per cent discount on imports in American-owned or controlled vessels.

That the provision can be eliminated in the bill without harm, and that congress has no desire to insist upon legislation that will be embarrassing to foreign nations or interfere with treaty obligations was admitted today by administration leaders who are in charge of the bill. President Wilson is said to have intimated that he would not object to having the clause eliminated.

This action, it was reported, would be recommended by the senate finance sub-committee headed by Senator John Sharp Williams, which is considering the administrative features of the bill. The sub-committee also will seek to modify another clause which compels foreign merchants to submit their books to an American agent in case of disputed valuations, and provides as a penalty for refusal that the goods be excluded from entry.

Germany, France and England have made strong protests against this clause and assurances were given today that an effort will be made to eliminate the objectionable features.

Important Conferences.

Two important conferences were held today on the foreign protests. One was between Senator Simmons, chairman of the finance committee, and Secretary Bryan and John Bassett Moore, counsellor of the state department. The other conferees were Senators Williams and Hitchcock, of the finance committee, and Representative Peters, of Massachusetts, who had charge of the administrative sections of the bill for the house ways and means committee.

It was reported that the state department held it to be unquestionable that the 5 per cent debenture clause violated the foreign treaties. During the conferences protests against the clause from eight nations were read.

It was generally expected tonight that the house would yield to a senate amendment striking out the clause.

As the senate sub-committee got down to bed-rock today and began consideration of proposed changes in the bill, they found a long job ahead of them. Spurred on to finish the schedule within a week, if possible, they aimed to hold day and night executive sessions, but some of them feared that even in this way they would be unable, however, to be ready for the full committee before ten days.

Wool and Sugar Fixed.

Several democratic leaders who were emphatic in declaring that whatever was done by the committees there would be no changes in raw wool or sugar. As far as the committee is concerned this seems to be determined. The right to change them will be made in the caucus, but the present prospect is that the administration forces will not yield there. A report that the rates on woolen manufactures would be increased was denied by Senator Simmons.

In response to a request from Senator Williams Lincoln K. Passmore, of the Pennsylvania Mutual Life insurance today, presented statistics to establish the contention that his company is entirely mutual and that all its funds are exclusively diverted to the interest of the membership. He itemized statements of the transactions of the year 1912, showing the disposition of all funds that were presented. Mr. Passmore declared the proposed act discriminated against mutual life insurance companies.

GRADUATING EXERCISES AT DISTRICT COLLEGE

Barnesville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) The commencement exercises of the Sixth District Agricultural and Mechanical school came to a close last night.

The commencement sermon was preached by Rev. W. D. Hubbard, of Ladds City, Ala. The literary address was delivered by Rev. John Yarbrough, of Jefferson, in the absence of Hon. John N. Holder, who was prevented from being present by sickness. A much-enjoyed event of the commencement was the presentation of a "Debt of Honor," by the Dramatic club of the school under the direction of Professor Karl J. Kay.

The graduating exercises were as follows: Salutatory, Miss Helen Maxwell; class history, Miss Adell Hamlin; valedictory, Berner Means. The musical numbers reflected credit on the department and the studens. Rev. S. E. Wasson delivered the diplomas to the class.

TONGS OF CHINATOWN SIGN PEACE TREATY

New York, May 28.—The Hip Sings, On Leongs and the Four Brothers—warring Tongs of Chinatown—signed a treaty of peace this afternoon. Representatives of the three tongs met in the chambers of Judge Foster, of the court of general sessions. With a small paint brush they signed their names to the treaty, printed in the Chinese language, and afterwards, with pen and ink, signed a typewritten English translation.

New in the history of Chinatown are the provisions of the agreement. The old "dead line," wit hthe Hip Sings on one side and the On Leongs on the other, is wiped out. The long blue guns of the leaders are to be cast into the river and each tong is to bear toward the other "a spirit of brotherly love." All disputes and disagreements shall be arbitrated by the Chinese Merchants' association or a committee, though if this fails the police captain in charge of the precinct is to be sole arbiter.

Tonight Chinatown is placarded with copies of the treaty printed on flaring red paper and signed by the representative of the three tongs.

STRIKE ORDERED AGAINST GOV. FOSS

Boston, May 28.—Workers in two Hyde park manufacturing plants controled by Governor Eugene N. Foss, voted tonight to strike tomorrow. The vote came after the governor's refusal of demands for a 20 per cent increase in wages and betterment of working conditions. Governor Foss in refusing the demands recently announced that unless he imported help, it would be necessary to shut down the plants.

Brooks Succeeds Bass.

Rome, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—W. W. Brooks, a well-known capitalist and philanthropist, was elected president of the board of trustees of Shorter college to succeed Captain J. L. Bass. T. W. Lipscomb, was elected vice president and J. P. Cooper, secretary and treasurer. Dr. W. H. Harbin, of Rome, was chosen a new member of the board. Out-of-town trustees attending were Frank Hitchcock, of Moultrie; W. H. Johnson, of Washington; F. S. Etheridge, of Madison, and L. G. Hardman, of Commerce.

HOME TALENT TO GET DRAMATIC OPPORTUNITY

The Atlanta Home Talent Dramatic company, organized for the purpose of the cultivation of dramatic art and the local production of dramas and religious plays, will meet in the Y. M. C. A. hall Saturday night at 8 o'clock to try out applicants for membership. Membership for the present will be limited to 65.

The company has secured the services of Mrs. Oppreman, of Berlin, and Miss Mary Curd, of New York, as instructors. The officers of the company are J. Austin Brooks, manager; Miss Ariens Thrasher, treasurer, and O. D. Emerson, secretary. Professor Gerard A. Theirs has been appointed director of the chorus.

UNION CHAPLAIN SEEKS TO RETURN TESTAMENT

"Wade Golsley, from hi mother," Wade Golsley's mother wrote that inscription on the fly-leaf of a pocket Testament more than fifty years ago, when the boy marched away to the war. No one seems to know now who Wade Golsley was, for when his mother nor where their home was, except the boy was a young Confederate soldier, whose home was somewhere in the southern states.

But young Golsley was killed in the war, and as he died he handed the little Testament to a chaplain in the northern army and asked him to return it to his mother. The chaplain never succeeded in finding the boy's mother, and the chaplain's son Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, of Marion, Ohio, has the little book now, and is trying to locate some relative of Wade Golsley or a friend of his family who would like to have it.

MEMORIAL SERVICES AT NATIONAL CEMETERY

All arrangements have been made for the celebration of memorial day at the national cemetery in Marietta tomorrow by O. M. Mitchell, Post No. 1, of the Grand Army of the Republic. The address of the occasion will be made by the Rev. W. H. Hopkins, superintendent of home missions of the Congregational home mission board.

George B. Leavitt, commander of the post, will speak on the "Duty of the Day." A tribute will be paid to the dead by F. A. Jones, of Post No. 4, Tallapoosa. Music for the occasion will be supplied by the band of the Seventeenth infantry regiment, of the United States.

It is expected that a number of survivors of the Union army and their friends will go from Atlanta. Two special cars have been chartered for the accommodation of ladies who wish to attend, which will leave Atlanta at 9 a. m. and 9:30 a. m., returning at 1:30 and 3:30 p. m.

ELLIS WILL APPEAR BEFORE CITY DOCTORS

William Ellis, the double-jointed freak, who hove into Atlanta several days since on a tour around the world and has interested a number of the local medical fraternity in the ease with which he dislocates various joints in his body, announces that he will appear before the Fulton County Medical society at Carnegie library Thursday morning and before the Georgia Osteopathic association Saturday at the Imperial hotel, for both of which organizations he will give demonstrations.

ERUPTION SPREAD ON BABY'S FACE

Turkey, Texas.—"At six months old our little girl baby's face, chest, and lower limbs began to break out like heat. It broke out in pimples, and she would look as red as if she had fever. It continued to spread until she was almost a solid sore all over. She would scratch and cry and we could not get any rest for three months. The pimples began to run a yellowish water and would scab over. We had her treated and used every remedy we could hear of and they did her very good. Finally a lady told us her baby had the same trouble and was cured from Cuticura Soap and Ointment, so at once I ordered a 25c. cake of Cuticura Soap, and one box of Cuticura Ointment. The Cuticura Soap and Ointment began their good work at once, and she was completely cured.

"Our other child, when she was three days old, was taken in the same way. She had the eczema all over in small red pimples. She was as raw as a piece of beefsteak. She was very fretful and had sores all over her. It would itch and we would scratch and cry nearly all the time. The Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured her." (Signed) B. H. Turner, Mar. 11, 1912.

WHIFFS

A Fool Rule.

THE CINCINNATI HIT is with us. And of all the fool rules, this one is the limit. The idea of scoring a batter with a hit when he hits a grounder to the infield and the base runner beats the throw to an advanced base. It is nothing but the speed of his teammate who outran the throw that gives him credit for a hit. This play has always been scored a fielder's choice in the past.

Lord With Him.

LOOKING over his pitching staff, composed of Alexander, Brennan, Chalmers, Rixey and Seaton, Manager Dooin, of the Phillies, is inclined to become a firm believer in Napoleon's favorite maxim about the Lord being on the side that has the heaviest artillery.

In Ambitious.

TY COBB is one of our most ambitious athletes and he has a right to be. Cobb is out to beat Tip O'Neill's record of 492 made in 1887. The Georgian argues that he is off to a late start and as he has always picked up in his batting during July and August, this start is going to give him a fine chance to break all the exciting batting records. This means a hit every other time he comes to bat, which even for the great Georgian, is some accomplishment.

A Real Lesson.

LUTHER M'CARTY'S death should be a warning to the boxing promoters of the world, who do not insist on an examination of the physical fitness of the boxers before they enter the arena. Sad blow that it was, the incident should prove a lesson to all connected with the boxing game, and if it does not kill it, there should be an improvement all along the line in the pugilistic game.

He's at It Again.

MR. MURPHY, owner of the Chicago Cubs, is a better press agent than battling Nelson or Teddy Roosevelt, if such a thing is possible. First, he comes out with a statement threatening to fine any of his players caught talking with the scribes. Now he comes out with one that he never said any such thing. Anyway, Murphy got his name in the papers two ways in this connection.

In Favorite.

CORNELL athletes are favorites in the coming Intercollegiate Track meet at Cambridge Saturday, by reason of the wonderful ability of two sprinters, John Paul Jones, the distance crack, and Reller, the sprinter, who has won every short race he has been in this season, and seems to get better every time out.

Never Can Tell.

THE UNCERTAINTY of baseball was never better proven than on Tuesday when the Williams college team, defeated Yale by the score of 2 to 0, after the Blue had won seventeen straight games and beaten team after team that had defeated their conquerors. Given the Williams defeat, however, will not keep the title away from the Blue, unless they slip up in the Harvard and Princeton games, as they defeated Brown, considered their strongest opponent, and Brown has defeated all the others, including Williams.

After Hurler.

ONE HOLDOUT is making his holdout stick. This is "Baron" Knetzer, the big right-hander of the Brooklyn Trolley Dodgers. He refused to report, and with the Dodgers going the way they were, it looked like his case was hopeless, but now that they have started to slump, the Dodger fans have yelled so loudly that Manager Dahlen has been forced to reopen negotiations with his big hurler. If Knetzer is rounded into line, the Dodgers will have a staff second only to the Phillies.

Machine Slipping.

THE ONCE famous Cub machine is slipping and slipping fast, despite statements by Evers, Murphy et al, that the present team is a surface pennant winner. This was evidenced by a story from Chicago Tuesday night, that waivers had been asked on Reulbach and Richie, two of the pitching mainstays of former years.

PITCHER KROH NOT WANTED BY LOCALS

"It's the first that I ever heard of it," said Manager Smith yesterday when the story from Memphis' to the effect that the Crackers were angling for the services of Southpaw Kroh of the Turtles.

CRACKERS SHAKE THEIR LETHARGY

By Dick Jemison.

Chapman & Co. 4, Pelicans 0.

This, in brief, sizes up Wednesday's ball game at Ponce de Leon park, which the locals won by smearing the whitewash on the Pelicans, giving them the odd game of the series of three.

To Chapman can be attributed the lion's share of the credit for the victory. In his debut party he looked like and if this is his natural form the locals have grabbed a real catcher.

Chapman looked like a gift from a gift from a Wednesday. He is the missing link, the one cog that was needed to make the Cracker machine turn into a steamroller.

Human Pepper Box.

Chapman is a human pepper box. He made more noise behind the plate Wednesday than the entire Cracker team has made the entire season, and his pepper became infectious. The entire infield opened up at times and whenever they quit, Chapman waked them up with "Shake it up out there. Where's all that pepper goneb Come on, a little life!"

We're strong for Chapman right from the jump. He is a real receiver. The way he worked Musser and the opposing batters was the best treat that Atlanta fandom has witnessed in many a day.

Chapman outguessed practically every Pelican that came up to the plate, and he worked Musser like a veteran receiver, one that had been in this league all season and knew the strong and weak joints of every man on the New Orleans line-up.

Musser pitched a great game, but in justice to the man behind the gun, Chapman is the man who made his shut out possible.

Paul only allowed the Pelicans five hits, but he walked six, and made two wild pitches, yet not a run came across the plate.

The Susquehanna marvel pitched a great game, despite all this. Chapman keeping right after him with a rapid-fire of encouragement, showed plainly in Musser's work. The big hurler showed that he appreciated the encouraging remarks by putting everything he had into every pitch.

Timely Hitting.

The timely hitting of Bailey, Welchonce, Bisland and Long put the game away on ice. Wilson pitched a very useful ball game, and one that would have won ordinarily, but the Crackers were "on their toes" all throughout the pastime, and he did not have a chance.

The return of Shawnee Bill Bailey's batting eye was the most pleasing thing to the good pitching of Musser and the catching of Chapman. Two safe taps by the speed merchant looks like old times.

There were no real sensational fielding plays during the battle, it being a pitchers' battle, with Musser having the best of it, despite his wildness.

In passing it might be well to mention the three outfielders, Hendryx, in center. He caught all three after a hard run.

Dirty Work.

Finis Wilson, the Pelican southpaw is a fit candidate for debarment from the league, and if we had any authority to see that it was done we would insist that he be handed the pink slip this morning.

He deliberately tried to beam Wallop Smith in the sixth inning, circling over at his head that Wallop just ducked in time. On the very next wind-up Wilson took deliberate aim at Smith's head and threw the ball. It missed Smith, but the ball striking the bat in his hand and knocking it out.

But these tactics were in keeping with the kind of tactics that one usually sees when the Pelicans play here. They are always pulling something questionable. But this act of Wilson's was the most palpable that has ever been pulled on a local field.

If Wallop had smashed one right back at Wilson and the ball had knocked him down, it would have only been what he deserved for such tactics.

How Locals Scored.

Welchonce opened up the fourth inning for the Crackers by smashing one down the left field foul line for two bases, Cap Whitey Bisland sent him to third with a neat bunt. Bailey kicked in with a pinch, and Welchonce waltzed home.

In the fifth Spencer dropped Agler's short fly to start, and a base on balls to Chapman sent him to second. Musser sent them both up a base with a neat sacrifice. Long counting them with a two-ply smash that hit the Bull on the first bound. He was out trying to stretch it into a triple, and it was a pity, as Welchonce slammed his second two-smoker a moment later. Wallop Smith got a base on balls with two gone in the eighth, stole second and counted when Bisland smashed one over second for a cushion.

The closest that the Pelicans came to scoring was in the fourth, when Williams walked, went to third on a wild pitch and was out trying to steal home. Chapman blocking him off neatly.

Frank turned it down.

CINCINNATI HIT ADDED TO SCORES

Southern League Scorers Notified of Change by President Kavanaugh—Effective at Once.

The famous "Cincinnati Hit," which crept into the big leagues this spring has made its appearance in the Southern league. President William M. Kavanaugh having instructed his scorers of the change, which becomes effective at once.

The Cincinnati hit, in brief, is as follows:

With a runner on first base, the batter hits to short or third or any infield position. The play is made to second base to get the runner, but the throw is late, both hands being safe. In this instance, the batter is credited with a hit.

The same play can happen with a runner on second or third, the rule being that any infield grounder on which a play is made to the advanced base without success, but no error resulting, the batsman should be credited with a hit.

President Kavanaugh, however, takes the opposite side of the question on the earned run proposition. He does not believe that a pitcher's record should be based on the earned runs scored, thus eliminating a lot of unnecessary scoring.

The "Cincinnati Hit," is now in effect however on local grounds.

Chicago, May 28.—In the longest major league game of the season today, a base on balls in the seventeenth inning, with the bases full and two outs cost St. Louis the game 8 to 7. The locals had the game won until the ninth inning, when Mitchell dropped McLean's fly after two were out. This, followed by a double, a single and a wild pitch, tied the score. Harmon, who had replaced Griner, and Cheney who was the third pitcher for Chicago, put up a great pitchers' battle.

AUSTRALIAN CRICKET TEAM HAS ARRIVED

Victoria, B. C., May 28.—The Australian cricket team, headed by Captain Edgar Mayne, arrived here today on a tour that will see them in action in the several Canadian cities, in Philadelphia and elsewhere in the United States, and finally in the Bermudas. The visitors will play three games while the local cricket club.

Billikens Play Four Games With Locals Starting Today; No Ladies' Day This Friday

Johnny Dobbs and his Montgomery Billikens, who have the distinction of being the prize long distance swatters of the league for the past two seasons, will be the opponents of the Crackers at Ponce de Leon today for the remainder of the week.

Four games will be played between the Bills and the Crackers, a double header being scheduled for Friday, which is Federal Memorial day.

On account of it being a holiday, there will be no Ladies' day attraction in this series.

If permission can be obtained from the entire league, the double bill may be played ou Saturday.

Many new faces will be seen in the line-up of the Billikens, though there are a few that are known to local fandom.

The old men are Captain and Third Baseman Bill Elwert, Second Baseman Wares, Catcher Gribbens and Pitcher Bagby of last year's team; Catcher Pat Donahue, former Cracker shortstop, and Kunp, formerly of New Orleans, and Pitcher Charlie Case, formerly of Nashville.

The New Faces.

Pitchers Elmer and Curley Brown and Pitcher Manning are the new men on the rifle pit. First Baseman Kutina, formerly of the Browns, and Outfielders Walker, Sloan and Jantzen are the new men.

Brady and Chapman will be in the points for the Crackers.

The following is the probable batting order of the two teams.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—Seven thousand people saw Mobile win a see-saw free hitting game from Chattanooga today, by 7 to 6. Four pitchers were used and all of them were hit hard, Hogg and Hunt being knocked out in the second and third innings respectively. Shr fielding by Stock and Clark behind Robertson saved several runs, and the pitcher won his own game with a scratch hit in the eighth, scoring Clark from third.

Gov. Sulzer Puts Lid Down in New York State.

Albany, N. Y., May 28.—"There must be no gambling on the race tracks or anywhere else in the state," said Governor Sulzer in a letter to Arthur Brisbane, of New York. The executive declares he "shall adhere tenaciously" to the letters he has written to the authorities of counties in which tracks are situated, warning them to enforce the law.

"If there is any gambling on the Belmont park race track or any violation of the law," continues the governor "I shall hold these officials responsible and promptly take action."

Yale Golfers Win.

Bridgeport, Conn., May 28.—Yale ended its golf season today by defeating Cornell 5 to 4, on the links of the Brooklawn Country club. Today's victory gives Yale a clean slate, for seven all nine intercollegiate games played.

Leach Cross Wins.

New York, May 28.—Leach Cross, of New York, had little trouble in outpointing Teddy Maloney, of Philadelphia, in a ten-round bout here today. Maloney fought hard, but the local lightweight had the better of every round.

Buena Vista 2, Mauk 1.

Buena Vista, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Buena Vista defeated Mauk Monday afternoon on the olcal diamond by the score of 2 to 1. It was a pitchers' battle from beginning to end. Mosely, a southpaw pitching for Mauk struck out 11 men and gave up 4 hits, while Hair for the locals struck out the same number and gave up 5 hits. The Buena Vista team played fast ball, catching many hard drives that were labeled hits. The features of the game was the work of both pitchers, the batting of Hirshburg and the catching of Bradley for the locals. Buena Vista has not lost a game this season and is now traveling at a fast pace.

ONE AMERICAN IN GOLF TITLE

Schmidt, a Youngster, Meets Harold Hilton, a Veteran, in British Championship. Weber Eliminated.

St. Andrews, Scotland, May 28.—W. Heinrich Schmidt, the Worcester player, is the sole survivor among the American entrants in the contest for the amateur golf championship of the world. He won in both the fourth and fifth rounds today and will meet in the sixth round tomorrow H. H. Hilton, of the Royal Liverpool Golf club, who has held the world's championship title three times and has been British amateur champion and amateur champion of the United States.

Playing with machine-like accuracy and showing no signs of fatigue despite the gruelling fight with A. V. Hambro, of the Royal St. George's club, whom he defeated by one up earlier in the day, Schmidt in the fifth round fairly smothered Willie Grieg, the New Club, St. Andrews, who yesterday downed Munn, the famous Irish player, and a hot favorite for the championship.

The American won 3 up and 6 to play. Harold Weber, of Toledo, Ohio, was eliminated by Worthington, of the Mid-Surrey Golf club, who won by one up.

Weber's defeat leaves Schmidt to represent America among the eight who remain to compete for the championship. But the form he showed against Grieg was in such striking contrast to that displayed by Hilton, who only just escaped through in his match with Gilles, that the Massachusetts youngster has been made an even money choice against the renowned English player for the tomorrow's match and only six to one is laid against Schmidt as the ultimate winner.

Schmidt worked his way through college and is paying the expenses of the trip by special work. His victory would be most popular among the Scotch artisan golfers, who say they are tired of seeing the amateur championship won by rich men who devote their whole time to golf.

EMPIRE STATE LEAGUE

Thomasville, Ga., May 28.—(Special.) Waycross made it two of the series by winning this afternoon. Score 5 to 2. Wahoo's batting and base-running and Fenton's fielding were two features. Many safe cracks to center and right field landed in Fenton's glove, and Wahoo rapped out a homer, with one on in the third inning. Thomasville's fielding was errorless, but awful slow at times, allowing scores where they should not have been. The umpiring of Bennett was the especial feature of the game from the manager's viewpoint and that of the grand stand and bleachers. Both pitchers twirled good, steady ball throughout. Thomasville played its first errorless game.

Valdosta Wins Two.

Valdosta, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Valdosta downed Americus easily in a double-header this afternoon, 9 to 1, and 8 to 1. The games were quite different from the thirteen-inning scoreless time game of yesterday. Valdosta's fierce hitting did it. Five triples, two doubles and singles, galore, being garnered off the Americus pitchers. Elrod went the whole route for Valdosta. Wolfe pitched the first and a part of the second, Dacey finishing it up. The home team made a clean sweep of the series.

Cordele 15, Brunswick 7.

Cordele, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Cordele won over Brunswick by the score of 15 to 7, in a game this afternoon that was poorly played most all the way through. The fact that Vickery showed up extremely wild in the first inning, walking several men and allowing five scores, and the heavy slugging of the Cordele team, won for them. Vickery was taken out of the box in the midst of the first inning and was relieved by Slocum, who lasted until the third, and was supplanted by Norris. Day featured for Cordele by stealing home, and Brazier for making a home run. Smith made five of the errors marked up against Cordele.

WEAVER LEAVES WITH PELICANS

As predicted in The Constitution Wednesday morning and despite stories to the contrary, Manager Smith turned Pitcher Buck Weaver over to the Pelicans, and he left Wednesday night with the Birds when they pulled out for Nashville.

Weaver is only loaned to the Birds for the rest of the season. He is still the property of the Crackers and can be recalled at the end of the year.

FIFTEEN CARS HAVE QUALIFIED

Indianapolis, Ind., May 28.—Six additional cars, making a total of fifteen to date, had qualified in time trial for the 500-mile automobile race to be run at the Indianapolis motor speedway Friday. It was expected the trials of the remaining fourteen entries, which include most of the foreign cars, would be completed this afternoon. Harry Endicott, injured yesterday when a flying tire valve struck him on the arm, was out today apparently none the worse for his accident.

QUERIES ANSWERED.

Under this head, the sporting editor will endeavor to answer all questions pertaining to all branches of sports.

Dick Jemison, sporting editor The Constitution: What is the fastest record for an automobile or a motorcycle? Which made the best time and what is the difference?

I presume you mean for a mile. Bob Burman made a mile in 26 and 40-100 seconds at Daytona, Fla., in 1911. This is the fastest automobile time on record. Ray Seymour, on a motorcycle, went a mile in 26 and 40-100 seconds at Los Angeles in 1912. This is the fastest motorcycle time.

Dick Jemison, sporting editor The Constitution: What leagues did Ty Cobb play in before he began playing in the American? H. E. W. South Atlantic only.

WILL MAKE OF JUNE 3 ROUND OF FESTIVITY

With Music and Oratory Decatur Citizens Will Celebrate Home-Coming Day.

Enthusiastic over the outlook for a big Decatur homecoming day on June 3, the reception committee of the board of trade, of which Mayor John A. Montgomery is chairman, added several new features to the program of festivities yesterday.

From sunrise until midnight on June 3 one round of entertainment has been planned, and some of the most eloquent men in Georgia will be on hand. DeKalb county's opportunities for truck farming, dairying and poultry raising will be discussed by Dr. Soule, of the State Agricultural college, and E. F. Smith will advocate ways and means of bringing the Fifth District Agricultural school to DeKalb county. C. Murphy Candler will speak on the life work of Jefferson Davis.

The big feature of the day will be the laying of the cornerstone for Decatur's new $25,000 school, under the auspices of the Masons, and appropriate addresses will be made by George M. Napier, Hooper Alexander, J. Howell Green and Mayor Montgomery.

The Atlanta Boy Scouts, with their drum corps, will be on hand for a boy scouts' rally during the afternoon, when a shield which they won in a recent athletic contest will be presented to the Decatur Boy Scouts.

A big board of trade smoker will wind up the day's celebration, and at 6:30 o'clock supper will be prepared for all who took part in the Decatur home-coming.

BURTON GIBSON'S FATE STILL IN JURY'S HANDS

Newburgh, N. Y., May 28.—At a late hour tonight the jury which has in its hands the fate of Burton W. Gibson, the New York lawyer charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Szabo, his client, had reached no agreement after having deliberated since 4:13 o'clock this afternoon. A mistrial was feared, as happened on the first trial of Gibson last fall. Crowds in the court room and other parts of the court house awaited the result, local interest in the case being intense.

ATTEMPTED ASSAULT CHARGED TO NEGRO, WHO ENTERED HOUSE

Dublin, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—Ralph McGruder, a negro, was lodged in jail here this afternoon charged with entering a white man's house last night, near Orianna, a small village in this county, near the Wheeler county line, and attempting assault upon a young white girl. It is said that about 10 o'clock last night McGruder entered the house and caught hold of the arm of the girl, and when she screamed, attempted to choke her. Another girl in the bed with her called help, and the girl's father ran to their assistance. McGruder jumped out the window and got away before the father could reach him.

This morning the man, with several neighbors, followed McGruder, who has a crippled foot and is easily tracked, into Orianna, where he was at work. They immediately took charge of him and were preparing to string him up when cooler heads intervened and the men were finally prevailed upon to turn the negro over to Sheriff Flanders.

The sheriff arrived here this afternoon with him and locked him in jail. McGruder says that he was drunk and got into the wrong house, and meant no harm. He stated that he had made arrangements with some negroes to spend the night with them at their house, near the one he entered, and he made a mistake in the houses, and got into the wrong place.

The matter was kept comparatively quiet and, it is said, that only a very men knew of the affair, but that a lynching would have taken place, had it not been for the efforts of influential citizens and planters in Orianna that a lynching would have taken place, anyhow. The community is quiet and excitement has died down.

Many Divorces Granted.

Americus, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The divorce mill has ground steadily in the local courts for two days with the result that a dozen matrimonial knots have been severed, three or four of these being white couples. The divorce proceedings have been the principal business before the court as the civil dockets were cleared in two days, the lightest business in many years.

"GEORGIA" ELECTIONS HOLD NO INTEREST

Athens, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—University students showed practically no interest today in the annual elections for officers of the Athletic association and out of a membership of 200, only 20 voters were present.

A. J. Johnson was chosen as president of the association and J. Adams, vice president. Roy Davis was selected as manager of the track team, and Hoyt Welchel and Russell Patterson were selected as the two men from whom the athletic board will choose a baseball manager. Frank Holden was selected as editor-in-chief of the Red and Black, and R. H. Burford won the place as associate editor.

MONOPOLY IN STEEL WAS NEVER DISCUSSED

During Negotiations Which Led to Organization of U. S. Steel Corporation, Says Judge Gary.

New York, May 28.—Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation and the man who conducted many of the negotiations which led to its organization, declared on the witness stand today that neither he, nor the late J. P. Morgan, nor anybody else had ever during these negotiations discussed the question of obtaining a monopoly in the steel industry or of suppressing competition. Judge Gary was testifying as a witness for the defense in the suit to dissolve the corporation under the Sherman anti-trust law.

The witness spent the entire day in a detailed recital of circumstances which led to the formation of the corporation and endeavored to show that the sole purpose that actuated its organizers was to obtain "a rounded-out, self-contained proposition, complete in every phase of manufacture from the mining of ore to the production of finished products in the mills with the ability to reduce costs to the most economical basis and to develop an export trade. "Our effort," he said, "has been to extend trade and to foster competition, and we have done that."

With equal emphasis Judge Gary denied that the steel corporation had been overcapitalized as alleged by the government. The various properties acquired "were all worth the price that was paid for them," he declared. He denied that the Federa Steel company, the nucleus around which the corporation was formed, was a monopoly in itself, as alleged by the government.

Organization of the corporation was precipitated, Judge Gary said, by the desire of the Federal Steel Company, a J. P. Morgan flotation, to perfect a "rounded out" organization. This opportunity came when Andrew Carnegie offered to sell the Carnegie Steel Company. The Federal, previously had refused several proffers of the Carnegie Steel Company and had attempted to raise $40,000,000 to build a new plant. This attempt was abandoned, he said, when Charles M. Schwab, outlined to Mr. Morgan advantages of acquiring a then existing property. Mr. Morgan was "impressed" and called in the directors of the Federal Steel Company.

Judge Gary described the meeting of the directors at Mr. Morgan's office and laid emphasis on the financier's desire to know whether it "was a good business proposition" and that nothing concerning the suppression of competition was said. At this meeting acquisition of other properties was decided upon and Judge Gary described how each fitted into the plan of a "self contained organization."

"Was the alleged threat of Andrew Carnegie to go into the steel tube business discussed or alluded to by Mr. Morgan or anyone else?" he was asked.

"It was not," said the witness.

Judge Gary said that he would not deny that competition existed "to some extent," between the Carnegie company and the Illinois Steel company, a subsidiary of the Federal Steel company.

BIG OFFER MADE FOR COVELESKIE

St. Louis Browns Would Give $4,500 for the Lookouts' Star—Elberfeld Turns It Down.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 28.—(Special.)—Robert Lee Hodges, president of the St. Louis Browns, yesterday made the local club a cash offer of $4,000 for Harry Coveleskie for immediate delivery.

Manager Elberfeld turned down the proposition for two reasons, one that he did not want to weaken his team's chances for the pennant which now look so bright, and second because Coveleskie did not want to go until the end of the season.

IS AGAIN ELECTED TO HEAD VETERANS

The re-election of General Young and his departmental officers was the occasion for the greatest ovation which has occurred at the present reunion. Rousing rebel cheers rent the air when the name of General Young was mentioned. After he had been elected by acclamation, General Young said:

"This is worth more to me than all the gold in the treasury of the United States. I would rather have your recommendation than that of all the other men and women in the world. God bless each one of you. I thank you for this high honor which you have seen fit to bestow upon me a second time."

Three cheers for "old Kentucky" were given, as General Young received the congratulations of many friends.

Each of the departmental officers was given a hearty ovation and all were deeply moved.

Many thousands witnessed the parade this afternoon of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. Attired in uniforms similar to those made famous throughout the southland by their fathers, these young men presented a striking spectacle. The Richmond Howitzers, the Pelham Guards, from Macon, Ga., and two companies of Tennessee militia participated in the pageant in addition to sponsors from many divisions of the organization.

Tonight the aged veterans were given an elaborate ball at Bennett Young pavilion. Regardless of fact that they are to stand the trying ordeal tomorrow of a street parade, many of the veterans danced late into the night. On the spacious pavilion, at various times during the night, dances of fifty years ago and of the present day were executed. The stately Virginia reel was followed by the "Turkey Trot" and young as well as old appeared to enjoy the occasion.

Tomorrow the veterans' parade, in which the aged soldiers will be given the places of honor, will conclude the twenty-third annual reunion so far as the veterans are concerned. The Sons of Veterans will be the guests of honor at a grand ball tomorrow night.

INSURANCE METHODS CHANGED BY TRAINMEN

San Francisco, May 28—The Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, in convention here today, approved a change in the organization's insurance methods. All policies hereafter will be paid in full when the holders reach the age of 70. Proposals to adopt a form of paid-up insurance, such as that offered by regular companies, and also to make the loss of one eye total disability, were defeated.

A new policy of $2,000, available after August 1, was agreed to and the two lower grades of policies now in effect are raised $50 and $100 respectively. The increases will be added August 1.

President W. G. Lee announced tonight that the convention would not vote as an organization upon the question of a strike on the eastern roads, but that a referendum vote would be taken by the lodges of the eastern division beginning June 15.

Exit Drainage Chief.

Washington, May 28.—C. G. Elliot, chief of drainage investigations in the department of agriculture, has left the government service to go into private business.

Teacher Who Became Mother Takes Case Before Courts

New York, May 28.—The board of education's ruling that teachers may not marry and become mothers is to be tested in the courts, according to announcement today by counsel for Mrs. Bridget M. J. Peixotto, charged with "neglect of duty" in marrying without the board's knowledge and reporting ill when her baby was born.

When Mrs. Peixotto was married in February, 1912, she failed to tell the board about it, fearing that under its ruling she would lose her position as principal of public school No. 14. The fact of her marriage was not learned by the board until a few days ago, after she had been on sick leave for six weeks and had been a mother four weeks. She was at once charged with neglect of duty, and is to be given a trial by the board shortly.

are best in the long run

There is nothing in Goodrich Advertising that isn't in Goodrich Goods

Not because the makers of practically half 1913's output of new cars have bought Goodrich Tires to equip them—

Not because so many well known car makers have always equipped their output with Goodrich Tires—

Not because thousands and thousands of more-than-satisfied tire users recommend them enthusiastically—

But—

Because the Goodrich principle of unit molding, which was crystalized from our twenty-seven years of experience in rubber manufacturing before we made the first American clincher tire and which we have never changed, demonstrated its soundness from the start—

And because our long experience in selecting the best crude rubber and compounding it gave us the ability to give it toughness and durability and at the same time keep the buoyant life in it—

And because we make Goodrich Tires of the finest fabric that can be woven of Sea Island Cotton—fabric that costs as much as silk—and of pure rubber—

And because Goodrich unit molding makes the whole tire one integral piece—a unit—which wears uniformly and gives long, comfortable service.

The thick, tough tread, being of the tire and not merely on it, naturally cannot strip or peel.

Our single vulcanization makes all the tire at once—a unit—and frees you of the danger from weak spots or dead places caused by over vulcanization cooking the life out of the rubber.

Your tire dealer will supply you with whatever style of Goodrich Tire you need—but there is only one kind and quality.

Write for free set of folders telling you how to get the most service from your tires and how to avoid the common tire injuries.

And, if you plan a tour, let us send the Goodrich Route Book covering it.

ALL THE NEWS OF REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING

An interesting auction sale which will take place this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock is that of No. 161 West Tenth street, by the Ralph O. Cochran company for W. C. Harper. The sale will be held on the premises.

This is a 9-room colonial residence on the north side of the street, just west of Spring street. The lot has a frontage of 100 feet, with a depth of 200 feet.

Ben Eddie Sales.

M. C. Kiser's agency has sold for George Wight to J. E. Newman a vacant lot, 50x150, on Mansfield avenue for a consideration for the present withheld.

Minnie M. Costner has sold to J. E. McRae No. 403 Gordon street, near Holderness street, for $9,000.

John B. Daniel has sold to J. T. Tuggle No. 644 Ponce de Leon avenue, 50x180, for $12,500.

Mrs. Mattie F. Hudgins has sold to Mrs. Ida G. Pryor No. 646 Ponce de Leon avenue, 38x321, near North Boulevard, for $13,000.

Wm. Roswell Road Widened.

A number of property owners, nearly all of whom have already agreed to donate the necessary strips of land, have signed a petition to the county asking the widening of Roswell road by 10 feet on each side. This improvement will give the road a width of 50 feet, and put it in condition for the proposed extension of the street car line out that road. The stretch of road for which the improvement is asked is between Buckhead and Plaster's Bridge road.

The following owners have signed the petition: John W. Grant, L. W. Rodgers, George M. Hope, J. L. Riley, A. J. Walters, C. S. Honour, G. H. Narwich, J. M. Kawtwich, George Yonker, Y. S. Brownell and C. C. Lowndes.

FOR RENT
SUBURBAN HOMES.

IN ENSLEY PARK, Edgewood, Kirkwood and Decatur, we have a number of pretty cottages, and few very attractive larger homes. Most of these places carry all of the conveniences. Kirkwood and Decatur as yet have not the gas, but electric lights and plumbing. This is the time when the country is most attractive. The car service is fine, and to remember, during the winter is no hardship. Large lots, good schools and churches, and reasonable rents. Let us tell you about them.

CLAIRMONT AVENUE, DECATUR, GA.

ON THE CORNER of Ponce de Leon, in this pretty little town, within twenty-five minutes' ride of the city, we have this splendid modern eleven-room house, on large corner lot. Would be a choice location for a large private family, or for summer boarders. We are offering it at low rental to first-class parties.

BUSINESS HOUSES.

IF YOU ARE looking for a business location, either central or in some of the thickly populated suburbs, you should come in and consult our list. We will tell you about these, and we are then ready with comfortable conveyances to show you our properties.

FOSTER & ROBSON

New York, N. Y., May 28.—(Special.)—The cotton acreage for the season of 1913, as determined by 1,997 special correspondents of the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, shows an increase of 4.8 per cent over last year, based upon the revised estimate of the government of 34,766,000 acres for 1912, the area planted for 1913 would be 36,435,000 acres.

Percentage condition of an average date of May 29 is 80.5, as compared with 76.9 a year ago, and 79 for the ten year average. In 1911 percentage condition was 83.8. Figures for North and South Carolina are incomplete owing to late planting, and to the fact that a large proportion of the cotton is not yet up.

New York, May 28.—The old crop months were rather weak today. Free tenders on May broke the spot month ten points and July closed down nine points. New crop months were better supported, and, although they closed five points down, were bought by very strong interest on the decline. The market closed steady. The fact that the market will be closed Friday and Saturday and that there will be a government report Monday, made trading rather light. Liverpool is due to come 1¾ to 2 down on the active positions.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, May 28.—Liquidation of May and July today caused relative easiness in those positions, but the new crop months held steady under light offerings, and rather general demand. Complaints of cool nights are current and have had the effect of strengthening the market during the past two days. Otherwise however, crop reports and weather conditions are favorable for the development of the plant.

LATEST REPORTS FROM ALL OF THE MARKETS

COTTON WAS NERVOUS MOST OF THE SESSION

Market Closed Steady at Net Decline of Four to Ten Points.

New York, May 28.—The cotton market was not more than moderately active today, as trading was chiefly local, but the tone was nervous and unsettled, with the close steady at a net loss of from 4 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 5 points, in sympathy with lower cables. May notices were circulating to the effect that about 15,000 bales, according to a local estimates, and that position quickly broke to a net loss of 11 points, under scattering liquidation. Owing to the fact that Friday and Saturday are holidays, trading in May ends at noon tomorrow and the activity of that position probably reflected a final adjournment of outstanding interest.

It was rumored that part of the notices issued were against contion that had been taken up by houses with Liverpool connections early in the month, and the fact that, after shipping out about 15,000 bales, some of the cotton is being retendered to exercise a bearish influence on July. At any rate, that position eased off with May, and while later deliveries lies held relatively steady within a point or two of last night's closing figures during the forenoon, the entire list turned easier in the late trading.

A private crop report making the condition of the crop 25.2 per cent and estimating an increase of 4.7 per cent in acreage, no doubt contributed to the late selling movement, while bearishly disposed traders were also influenced by reports of possible friction between Bulkaria and Servia. Closing prices were at practically the lowest point of the day on new crop months.

Private cables from Liverpool reported a quiet, steady market at the opening, while advices from the continent indicated rather a better demand from spinners recently both for spots and new crop deliveries. Little fault was found with prevailing weather conditions in the south, beyond some talk of low night temperatures, but private predictions of favorable conditions by the end of the week were not considered altogether favorable and probably helped late months during the early trading.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, May 28.—Cotton made a moderate decline today on the growth of bearish sentiment in connection with the pending government report of the condition of the growing crop on May 25. Private bureau estimates up to 85 per cent of the normal stimulated selling and intensified that effect of good weather and crop reports. The only balancing feature was cold weather in the central portion of the belt. The market was quiet the session through and at their best or within only moderate sellers, while on the other hand, bulls gave the market over to the bears.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 6 points, on poor cables and the good weather map. Until late in the day prices were near the lowest. The low temperatures in important parts of the belt and the fact that the general minimum temperature for the entire belt last night was only 57 degrees, coupled with rather bullish private bureau reports on Texas caused a pause in short selling and the market reversed to practically the close of yesterday.

The forecast of dry weather for the entire belt and a report putting the condition of the crop at 85 per cent, and the increase in increase at 4.7 per cent, started selling afresh and the market gradually ashered until the afternoon, the trading months were 7 points under the last quotations of yesterday. The close was steady at a net decline of 5 to 7 points.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, May 28.—The market is lower today, partly on the heavy selling from Wall street, on fear of further financial upset, and partly on the idea that after so long a period of cold weather, the cotton belt would soon have warm and clear weather, which would bring different crop accounts from those which have been received today. It is reported that some 10,000 bales were tendered on May today, which led many to believe that the long parties would not ship July. No one knows, but the current impression is that they will distribute their holdings. That is the rumor all over.

Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, May 28.—Cotton seed oil was about steady early, on demand from shorters for July, but the let later sagged off under liquidation in August, selling of late months against new crop crude and with the easier ruling in lard. Closing prices were 3 points higher on June and unchanged to 2 lower on the balance. Sales, 15,200 barrels.

Prime crude nominal; prime summer yellow, $7.18@7.20. Prime winter yellow, $7.10@8.00; prime summer white, $7.40@8.00. Futures ranged as follows:

FEW BUYING ORDERS IN THE WHEAT MARKET

Notwithstanding Many Crop Damage Reports Were Received During Day.

Chicago, May 28.—There was no end of crop damage reports today, especially from the southwest, the news was not backed up by buying orders, accordingly, the wheat market showed weakness. aLtest trading was steady, however, at a decline of a shade to 5-8 net. Corn finished 1-8@1-4 off to a like amount up; oats, with a gain of 1@1-4 to 1 1-8 and provisions varying from 10 cents loss to 12 1-2 advance.

Wheat bears argued that if the Kansas and Oklahoma crop had been injured as much as declared in the three weeks just passed, all central Arkansas would be flooded with public buying orders. Interest was taken also in a well-known expert's opinion that if within a week would make a marvelous difference as to yield in the dry sections of Kansas. Rallies developed chiefly about the middle of the session and were based, to a considerable extent, on a number of adverse field reports from Illinois points. In addition, Baltimore sent word of ocean freight room taken for thirty-five boat loads. On the other hand, assertions taht the harvest had already started in Texas led to much realizing by longs near the close. Export clearances of wheat and flour today equaled 823,000 bushels. Primary receipts of wheat were 349,000; a year ago 334,000 bushels.

Heavy arrivals and excellent weather carried corn lower, except May, which regained a little of the radical setback of the previous session. There was a large speculative business.

Strength in oats grew out of expert opinions that recent damage could not be overcome even with the best conditions.

Packers were credited with hoisting pork and ribs. Lard succumbed to pressure, due to liberal receipts of hogs.

CAUCUS OF DEMOCRATS TO LIMIT LEGISLATION

To Consider Confining Extra Session to Tariff, Currency and Appropriations.

Washington, May 28.—Democrats of the house will caucus next Monday to consider a resolution to limit legislation during the extra session to tariff, currency and possible emergency appropriations, and to pass upon committee assignments. Democratic Leader Underwood, who will present the committee selections of all three parties also is expected to introduce the resolution outlining the house program for the session.

Some speech-making on the committee assignments is expected, particularly concerning the good roads committee, the creation of which is opposed by some economy advocates. The ways and means committee majority's unfavorable attitude toward the proposal for a committee on public health probably will be discussed, too.

A call for a republican caucus next Saturday afternoon will be issued tomorrow. The purpose is to consider the republican assignments to committees as framed by Mr. Mann, although the leader has full authority to determine them without caucus approval, if he chooses.

The house progressives, with ten of their total of nineteen present, met in open caucus today, unanimously approving the committee assignments framed by their leader, Representative Murdock, of Kansas, and adopting a resolution asking progressive men and women of all parties to join the progressive party. It was the first time in the history of congress that a party conference had made its committee assignments at an open session.

Representative Chandler, of New York, created something of a stir by declaring that the progressives must Barnesee" and adopted progressive tion with the progressive element in the republican party was not a possibility of the future, if the republicans dropped "their Penroses and their Barnesee" and adopted progressive principles. He was the only one present to urge this view, however.

Representative Murdock pledged not to ally with the republican party, and charged that the republican gatherings recently had indicated their party was capable only of post-mortems."

The Progressives were allowed representation on all of the house committees except the rivers and harbors and agriculture, being given a total of twenty-eight assignments.

BEDINGFIELD GUILTY IS VERDICT OF JURY

Decision in Macon Case Came After Long Deliberation—A Mistrial Was Expected.

Macon, Ga., May 28.—(Special.)—The jury in the case of Mallary Bedingfield, the Macon mill supply agent, on trial today charged with shooting F. A. Guttenberger, a music dealer, last fall, found him guilty of shooting another, and recommended him to the mercy of the court. The verdict came after six hours of deliberation, and when both sides had begun to fear a mistrial. Sentence will be passed Thursday morning.

Bedingfield claims the shooting was accidental, as he mistook Guttenberger for a burglar, and, while he admitted firing the shot which came near costing Guttenberger his life, he declared he only shot to frighten the supposed burglar, and not to kill.

Bedingfield was indicted by a former grand jury on the charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Both Bedingfield and Guttenberger went on the stand today before the case finally went to the jury at 4 o'clock, and a large crowd of people filled the courtroom to hear their statements.

Guttenberger Tells of Shooting.

Guttenberger first told how he went into his back yard on the night he was shot, and placed his automobile in the garage. He said that he saw Bedingfield step out upon the back porch next door and begin firing. He asserted that he lay on the ground five minutes after he was shot before Bedingfield came to him.

Mrs. Bedingfield told practically the same story, adding that after the shooting, and while her husband lay ill, the man who shot him never showed any interest in his case.

Bedingfield in his statement declared that he was called to the back porch by the sound of his ducks, which were alarmed and were making a noise. He stated that, believing it to be a burglar, he fired upon the ground, and that he believed that a shot glanced and struck the man in the next yard.

He said that he rushed into the house and put up his pistol when he heard the man scream, and then went to him, and that later he tried to visit him at his house, but was refused admission. He also stated that he offered to give his wife's diamonds, valued at $350, for aid in paying the injured man's expenses, but that this was refused.

Both parties denied that there had been any unpleasant relations between them previous to the shooting. It is stated that a suit for damage will soon be entered by Guttenberger against Bedingfield.

COVINGTON WILL MAKE LAW SCHOOL ADDRESS

W. A. Covington, of Moultrie, is to deliver the principal address at the commencement exercises of the Atlanta Law school at the Grand Opera house on Saturday night, June 7.

The commencement program, as announced by Dean Hamilton Douglas, is as follows:

Final Senior Examinations—Week ending May 31.

Special Lectures—June 2-6.

Debaters' Contest for Hamilton Douglas Prize—June 2, 8 p. m., at the law school.

Final arrangements for the debaters' conest were announced yesterday. The judges will be Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Judge Joseph Lumpkin, of the supreme court of Georgia, and Thomas Connally. Robert Owen, of the senior class, will preside over the debate, which will be upon the question, "Resolved, That capital punishment should be abolished." The decision of the judges will include two verdicts—one as to the individual winner of the Hamilton Douglas medal, and the other as to the winning team. The men who will compete in the debate are:

S. M. Castleton, R. E. Lee Cone, Pierce Burns, W. A. Hassel, J. R. McClelland, J. F. Highsmith, B. B. Patterson, Franklin S. Chalmers and Leonard J. Grossman.

UNCLE REMUS PLANT BOUGHT BY RURALIST

The Southern Ruralist company has purchased from the committee of bondholders of the Uncle Remus Magazine the mechanical plant, located on the corner Piedmont avenue and East Hunter street, and are planning to add to the printing facilities, preliminary to the formation of a new corporation, which will take over general commercial printing.

For several years the Southern Ruralist has been printed on the big rotary press and three flat-bed presses of the Uncle Remus corporation, but the plant will now be enlarged by its new owners, who ill print the 173,000 circulation of the Southern Ruralist on their on presses hereafter, in addition to operating a general printing plant.

MANUFACTURED EXPORT SHOWS LARGE INCREASE

Washington, May 28.—Manufactured goods exported from the United States during the first ten months of the fiscal year 1913 exceeded by $500,000 worth a day the exports in the corresponding period last year. Secretary Redfield today expressed great satisfaction over this showing in a report from the bureau of domestic and foreign commerce. The exports in the first ten months this year have been greater by $184,000,000 than last year, the totals being $1,225,000,000 against $1,041,000,000. These include manufacturers finished ready for use, manufacturers for further use in manufacturing and foodstuffs partly or wholly manufactured. The greatest increase was in finished manufactures, $96,000,000. The increase in goods for further use in manufacturing as $62,000,000.

The balance of trade in favor of the country during the first ten months this year has been $560,000,000, the exports having amounted to $2,108,000,000, while the imports totalled only $1,548,000,000.

SCORES ARE WILLING TO AID YOUNG BOY SECURE EDUCATION

Since reading the exclusive story in The Constitution Wednesday morning in which little William Everett, the waif who drifted into the police station Tuesday night, and said that he came to Atlanta because he heard that a boy could work in the day and get an education at night, scores of persons have called The Constitution, asking his whereabouts, and offering to educate him.

One in particular, C. W. Hatcher, who has a department store at 246 Marietta street, is very anxious to find him. Everett left the police station Wednesday morning with two other companions in search of work, and since then has not been found.

"When a boy shows determination to get an education like that I am willing to help him, and educate him," said Mr. Hatcher, talking with a Constitution reporter last night. "Such a fellow should be given a chance, and if I can possibly find him, I intend to see that he gets the chance that he is looking for."

Back in the sleepers' ward of the jail Tuesday night little Willie Everett told a pathetic tale of how he had never had a chance, and had been working all of his fifteen years with the exception of about one year. He said that he heard that he could go to night school in Atlanta, and so bummed his way here from Alabama, seeing the chance to get an education.

JUDGE A. L. MILLER RETURNS TO MACON

Washington, May 28.—(Special.)—Judge A. L. Miller, of Macon, who has been appointed arbitrator in the Guayaquil and Quito railroad tangle, of Ecuador, will leave for Georgia tomorrow, after several weeks spent in delving into the issues presented in the briefs of the contending parties.

"I am going home, study Spanish and await developments," he said. "I don't know when I will be required to go to Ecuador."

Representative Gordon Lee and other members of the Appalachian forest reservation commision will leave within a few days for Baltimore, N. C., to inspect the famous game preserve of George W. Vanderbilt, which is offered to the government as a forest reserve.

AMERICAN CONSULATE AT NOGALES DEFILED

Asserted That Insult Was Made by Enemies of Insurgents to Cause Complications.

Nogales, Ariz., May 28.—Much apprehension was aroused here today by the discovery that unidentified persons had defiled the front door of the United States consulate at Nogales, Sonora. Consul Frederick Simpich sent a note of protest to the town prefect and a policeman was sent to remove the defacement.

Profuse apologies were made by local Sonora officials, who asserted that the insult was made by enemies of the insurgent government who sought to cause complications between the revolutionary party and the United States.

Special police were sent to guard the consulate night and day.

BARGAIN IN LOTS

Benning street, near Whitefoord and Mason avenues; splendid 50-foot lots for only $550. These lots are well shaded, lie well, and are in a splendid section. Being close to car line and public schools makes these lots exceedingly desirable, both for the investor and home-seeker. The terms are unusually easy—$150 cash, balance $10 per month. There are no prettier or more desirable suburban lots to be found around Atlanta. Let us show you.
